Actress Weds Director

'War Without Friends' Seen By Lloyd George

Former Premier Warns Chamberlain That In End There Will Be No Peace; Assails 'Gift' to 'Ruthless Dictator.'

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—David Lloyd George broke his silence on the peace of Munich today to warn Prime Minister Chamberlain that it would end in a "war without friends" for Great Britain.

The white-haired wartime premier delivered his grim prediction while the present prime minister and his cabinet met for two and one-half hours to review vital matters ranging from defense of home shores to the colonial cost of really satisfying Adolf Hitler. The cabinet announced no decisions

In his first speech since the Munich pact saved Europe's peace at the price of Czechoslovakia's dismemberment Lloyd George declared the peace "was a bad peace, and a bad peace is no peace at all."

'There Will Be War.'

"I will tell you what we shall find, and I am speaking now as one who has taken a great part in the affairs of this country at the most critical moment in the whole of its history:

"We shall have forfeited honor; we shall have lost the respect of the world, and what is still worse, we shall have lost our own self-respect. And in the end there will be no peace. There will be war, and war without friends."

Lloyd George declared that in making the Munich accord "we handed over a little democratic state in central Europe, wrapped in the Union Jack and the Tricolor, to a ruthless dictator who will deny freedom to both Czechs and Germans alike."

Answering questions following the speech, he said he believed "the totalitarian nations would have been crushed like an eggshell" had there been war, despite Britain's defense weaknesses.

Referring to the wars in China, Ethiopia and Spain and the partitioning of Czechoslovakia, Lloyd George said:

"We have descended during these years the ladder of dishonor rung by rung. Are we going—can we go—any lower?

"We all shared in a sort of thrill of relief which passed through this country when we realized we were to be spared at any rate for some time the horror and squalor of war."

START MOP-UP

Japanese Naval Officers in Command at Hankow.

HANKOW — (UP) — Japanese navy officers took command in Hankow today in co-operation with leaders of the foreign colony began the work of consolidating the Japanees victory and mopping up Chinese army stragglers.

Army troops who in co-operation with the navy fought their way up the Yangtse camped in the northern environs of the city awaiting a victory parade into the captured emergency capital.

Across the river, Inwuchang, Japanese troops marched through the Payang gate at dawn today.

Officers aboard said that the main navy would begin to arrive late today.

Nist Returns to Law Again, Helps To Defend City

Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist turned lawyer again today to help defend the city of Mansfield in a $25,000 damage suit which was taken before a jury this morning in common pleas court.

Nist virtually relinquished his law practice with the firm of Nist and O'Donnell early in the year when he became relief director and later service-safety director.

In the trial of the case which opened today he will assist City Solicitor M. D. Ward, jr., official representative of the city in legal matters. Six witnesses had been subpoenaed to testify for the city and five for the plaintiff.

The suit involves an automobile accident on Lexington avenue in June, 1936, when Mrs. Julia Willet, of Cincinnati, was fatally hurt. The action was filed by her husband, William Willett, jr., as administrator of her estate, who contends that the city was negligent in failing to repair a deep rut in the street which allegedly caused the accident.

The plaintiff, who was driving the car in which his wife was riding, said a front wheel dropped into the rut, causing him to lose control of the car which swerved across the street and turned over.

Willett is represented by Attys. William F. Black, Mansfield, and H. C. Becker, Cincinnati.

HAT, PARTLY OPEN WINDOW PUZZLE POLICE

Temple University Student, 21, Killed in 10-Story Drop From Lab Building.

BLOODSTAINS ON DESK

Knife, Iodine Bottle Checked as Investigators Seek to Solve Unusual Death.

(By United Press)

PHILADELPHIA — Detectives, searching the classrooms of Temple university, found two clues today suggesting that Betty Bonner Fell, 21-year-old co-ed, might have been murdered in a lavatory and her body hurled to the street, 10 stories below.

They found a man's hat, unclaimed, in a classroom near the lavatory that should have been deserted at the time of her plunge. The lavatory window from which she fell was so nearly closed that it would have been difficult if not impossible for her to have squeezed through. This suggested that someone had partly closed the window after her.

Find Bloodstains.

There were other clues, however, suggesting suicide. Bloodstains were found on the arm rest of the girl's desk, a butcher knife and an empty iodine bottle were found in the lavatory. There were iodine stains on her lips.

Miss Fell, a freshman from Trenton, N. J., was attending a late class yesterday on the 10th floor of Carnall hall. She received permission to go to the lavatory. A few minutes later a dozen pedestrians in Broad street saw her fall.

One of the first to arrive at the scene was Dr. Charles E. Beury, president of the university. He was first to notice the iodine on her lips.

All Co-ed Class.

There were no men students in the late class and none of the co-eds there remembered seeing a man on the 10th floor during the afternoon.

Police believed that either Miss Fell or the one who killed her carried the knife, and the blood on her desk indicated that she had brought it to class and had wounded herself with it before leaving for the lavatory.

TALBOT BETTER

Screen Star Recovers From Burns Suffered in Fire.

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—Lyle Talbot, film star, badly burned as he rescued a friend when the $50,000 Talbot home was gutted by fire early yesterday, was recovering at the Cedars of Lebanon hospital today.

He will be able to resume his screen career in a few months, doctors said.

Talbot could have escaped uninjured, but he elected to rescue his companion of many years, Franklin D. Parker, film player.

Both Talbot and Parker were critically burned. Most of Talbot's hair was singed off.

State OK Assures Early Sale of $60,000 Relief Bond Issues

Approval by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson of legislation providing for a private bond sale paved the way today for Mansfield city officials to act immediately to obtain $60,000 in relief funds.

Ferguson's approval of the bond issue, received yesterday by City Solicitor Marion D. Ward, permits Mayor Claude M. Hunter and City Auditor Paul L. Kelley to negotiate for the sale of the bonds, without calling for sealed bids.

Kelley said he would not negotiate for the sale until Mayor Hunter returns from his vacation Monday, but that he hoped to complete the transaction on that day so legislation could be presented to council at its regular meeting Tuesday night.

The bond issue authorized by council Oct. 4, calls for the issuance of 12 notes of $5,000 denominations and one note of $500 with an interest rate not to exceed 4 per cent.

The legislation provides that they shall be retired three at a time beginning March 1, 1939 from funds received from the collection of state taxes through 1942.

More than $50,000 of the money raised from the bonds will be used immediately to pay bills owed Mansfield grocers for foodstuffs supplied city relief clients.

BULKLEY-TAFT DEBATE

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Harold C. McKinley, who "covered" the Taft-Bulkley debate in Youngstown last night as an Associated Press reporter, is a former News-Journal staff member.)

By HAROLD C. McKINLEY

YOUNGSTOWN — (AP) — Ohio's senatorial campaign "got down to fundamentals" today with Robert A. Taft, Republican nominee, contending New Deal power threatens democracy, and Democratic Sen. Robert J. Bulkley terming that power a "protection to the interest of all people."

In their fourth "Lincoln-Douglas" debate in this steel center last night, Taft opened the forensics with the assertion that "New Dealers" were determined to impose on the United States "a complete regimented economy."

From Bulkley came the reply that "the necessity for keeping the control in the hands of the people, and keeping the government strong enough to protect the interest of all the people, arises from the increased concentration of control in private business."

While the issue of the New Deal's power highlighted the debate on the question, "New Instruments of Public Power Under the New Deal," still in the foreground were the counter charges over the candidates' management of their campaigns.

Taft renewed his charge that Bulkley violated the corrupt practices act by acceptance of contributions from federal employes, and in addition to contributors already named he listed several Youngstown postal employes.

Bulkley demanded that Taft disclose his campaign expenditures

SAWYER-BRICKER CAMPAIGN

ASHTABULA—(AP)—In a series of rural addresses, John W. Bricker, Republican candidate for governor, told residents of this area that efficiency in state government would make new taxes unnecessary.

Bidding for farm support, Bricker made 14 brief talks during a 100-mile tour of Ashtabula county yesterday.

"Industrial income cannot come until agriculture's income is increased so that farmers can buy to fill their needs," the Republican nominee said.

"Ohio can be provided with adequate state government and services without new taxes if an efficient administration is installed.

At a party luncheon in Conneaut, Bricker said Ohio could be saved from financial chaos only through the Republican program to curtail

ALLIANCE—(AP)—Charles Sawyer, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, asserted in a campaign address here last night that his Republican opponent, John W. Bricker, has been silent recently "about whom he is going to fire if he should become governor."

Referring to his charge that Bricker and Gov. Martin L. Davey entered into a "deal" under which the later would receive 30 per cent of the state liquor department's patronage, Sawyer said Bricker made no further mention of governmental housecleaning "because he is now dealing on a 30 per cent basis with the very men he condemned."

"In his first speech of this campaign he talked about jailing the thieves," said Sawyer. "Is it part of the 70-30 deal not to jail the thieves?"

THE LOCAL SCENE

COUNTY Republican leaders today announced they would "shoot the works" at their final big rally of the campaign in Mansfield Nov. 4 with Thomas J. Herbert, Cleveland, candidate for attorney general, as the principal speaker. The session will be at Republican headquarters on North Main street.

Meanwhile, party headquarters today had been turned into a banquet hall for a dinner meeting at 6:30 p. m. today, sponsored by the Republican Women's council C. C. Crabbe, former attorney general, will be the speaker. County candidates will speak briefly.

Herbert, one of the leading Republican campaigners in the state, is the only G. O. P. candidate for a state office who has not appeared in Mansfield since the August primary election.

He is a Cleveland attorney and former assistant attorney general under Gilbert Bettman and John W. Bricker.

Replying to charges of Charles Sawyer, Democratic candidate for governor, of an "unholy alliance" between Bricker, his Republican opponent, and Gov. Martin L.

INDICATIONS of the serious bid being made by the Democratic party to win over the colored vote, once a Republican bloc, was indicated again here last night when nearly 500 colored voters gathered for a county-wide rally at the Democratic headquarters on West Fourth street.

The group heard Edgar Brown of Washington, national educational adviser for the Civilian Conservation corps call for a solid colored vote for the "entire Democratic ticket."

Brown urged his audience to "get behind" Senator Robert J. Bulkley and Congressman William A. Ashbrook, both candidates for re-election.

"You are not voting just for Bulkley and Ashbrook," Brown asserted, "but you are also voting for yourself.

"You want men in Washington who will support President Roosevelt's program, men like these two Democratic candidates who will back the seven CCC camps in Ohio that are providing 1,400 colored youths with homes, food and clothing, and still enable them to send

PREDICTS NEW RECOVERY WILL BE 'DURABLE'

Business Authority Cheers Retailers, Sees Uptrend Continuing Steadily.

CITES FAVORABLE FACTORS

Points to Low Inventories, Says Consumption Running Ahead of Production.

We are in a recovery movement that will be a durable one—it will be no spurt of the 1937 model—indications are that the uptrend will continue for several years.

That was the message of cheer that the Mansfield Retail Merchants association heard last night at its annual dinner meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

The forecaster was Theodore Beckman, professor of marketing in the school of commerce at Ohio State university and a recognized authority on business and economics.

Sales on Upswing.

"Sales during the last three months of this year will equal the volume for the fourth quarter of 1937 but there is a vast difference in conditions," Prof. Beckman said.

"Now we are going ahead while last year at this time we were in a decline. If this continues until spring it is safe to expect steady progress for several years."

He enumerated six favorable factors that are figuring in the current uptrend. They are:

1—Inventories are low—10 per cent under last year.

2—Consumption has been running ahead of production since last September. Production is now 74 points as compared with consumption of 85 points.

3—Federal pump priming is being felt.

4—Banks are in a sound condition—money is easy.

5—Business is in a position to increase the credit structure 100 billions.

6—Construction industry is now 51 per cent of the 1929 level—and going ahead rapidly as compared with 10 per cent in 1933.

Cites Disturbing Factors.

While emphasizing that the business outlook was bright, Prof. Beckman said that in analyzing the future it is necessary to first

TRIES AGAIN

Ferguson Off for Washington on Pension Money Quest.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson said he would leave for Washington today in a fresh attempt to end the Ohio-federal old age pension impasse, which already has delayed benefit payments.

The auditor disputed Finance Director M. Ray Allison's assertion yesterday that sufficient funds were on hand to pay the state's half of benefits. Ferguson contended that the division of aid for the aged was broke.

Nevertheless, he said checks for full amounts, averaging $23 to 112,000 pensioners, were being written in the hope that the federal social security board would rescind its order withholding 50 per cent of the money which regularly goes to make up payments.

Not Kidnaped

Little Dean Tripp, 3, of Floral Park, L. I., wasn't kidnaped as his parents and federal agents believed. Dean merely was taken by the Tripp gardener, George O'Connell, to a friend's house for the week-end. When he returned the boy, O'Connell told police he had attempted to call the Tripp home, but received no answer.

APPOINTS NEW O.S.R. CHAPLAIN

Glattke Announces Pastor at Kent to Succeed Mackey; Comes Here Next Week.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke today announced the provisional appointment of Rev. Martin W. Wappner of Kent as chaplain of the Ohio state reformatory.

Rev. Wappner will fill the vacancy left by W. K. Mackey, former chaplain, who resigned several months ago to become assistant parole agent for the state welfare department.

Rev. Wappner will take over his new duties at the institution Nov. 1, Glattke said, and after serving the provisional period of 90 days, will take a civil service examination for permanent appointment.

The Wappner family, including a daughter, Lois, and a son, David, are expected at the reformatory Oct. 31.

For the past 10 years Rev. Wappner has been pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church at Kent. Previously he served seven years in Coshocton.

A graduate of Wittenberg college and Hamma Divinity school at Springfield, he is president of the Kent Ministerial association and chairman of the Portage county old age pension board.

Since his resignation, which took effect in January, Mackey has continued to perform most of the duties of chaplain, although he was able to be in Mansfield only over week-ends. He is now located in Columbus. Mackey was chaplain at the reformatory for seven years.

STEEL FIRMS REPORT LOSS

Youngstown Sheet and Tube and Republic in 'Red.'

YOUNGSTOWN — (INS) — A net loss of $727,546 during the third quarter of 1938 was reported today by the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company. This compares with a net profit of $118,033 for the previous quarter and $3,586,495 for the third quarter of 1937.

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Net loss of Republic Steel corporation and subsidiaries for the third quarter totaled $2,387,556, the company's quarterly income statement showed today. Net loss in the first quarter was $3,062,564, and in the second quarter $2,856,317.

GERMAN LINER RETRACTS SOS, HEADS TO PORT

PASSENGERS ALARMED

Dread Fire Alarm Sounds as Deutschland's Voyagers Dine and Dance.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Fire aboard ship in perilous, gale-whipped seas of the North Atlantic remained a nightmarish memory today to 591 passengers and 392 crew members on the Deutschland as the German liner headed toward port with her insides charred by flames.

An electrifying "SOS" flashed through the air early last night when fire broke out in the ship's No. 2 hold, after an explosion of unexplained nature.

Asks Speedy Aid.

"Assistance necessary urgently," crackled over the radio waves. Then—

"Fire in room (hold) No. 2."

A "quiet period" was quickly ordered on the seas and observed by ships far and near.

Ships' wirelesses closed transmitters and bent their ears toward the position 200 miles southeast of Cape Race, Newfoundland, where the flame-perilled Deutschland was rolling in mountainous seas.

"Danger—help necessary," said the frantic, repeated calls from the German liner.

Its location was broadcast time after time, and ships within range turned about, surging off course in a mad race to help.

Land bases and ships received and intercepted and relayed a maze of alarming reports.

"Assistance necessary urgently," drummed into the ears of radio operators. Then—

'Fire Under Control!'

After a winning two-hour battle with the flames, Capt. Karl Steincke, master of the ill-starred veteran of four other mishaps at sea, radioed to the New York of-

7 WIN $150,000

Lucky Americans Win Prizes on Contrevent at Sweeps.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Seven Americans won $150,000 each today by holding Irish Hospital sweepstakes tickets on Contrevent, winner of the Cesarewitch race at Newmarket, England.

Seven tickets on Dubonnet, second place winner, were held in the United States and won $75,000 each.

Holders of tickets on Contrevent were listed as: "Kant Win," Bronx, New York City; Mrs. V. Strauss, Jackson Heights, New York City; "Lucky Dreamer," Greensboro, N. C., Spritzels Mazel, Bronx, New York City; Elwood Horne, Cincinnati, "Aggie," Los Angeles, Cal.; Fred S. Williams, Shoemakersville, Pa.

NEWMARKET, Eng. —(AP) — Contrevent, French-bred three-year-old owned by Princesse De Faucigny-Lucinge, today won the hundredth running of the classic Cesarewitch at two miles and a quarter.

J. P. Hornung's Dubonnet was second and E. Benson's Fet third. William Woodward's Olympus, only American-owned entry in the field, failed to place.

SONGSTER DIES

Composer of 'I Ain't Got Nobody' Stricken In Chicago.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Roger Graham a song writer of the blues era who composed the lyric for "I Ain't Got Nobody," died yesterday in the Cook county hospital after an illness of several months.

When Graham wrote the hit tune that starts "I Ain't Got Nobody, and Nobody Cares For Me," he was riding the crest of popularity. Yesterday he was forgotten and alone when he died.

LENS STARTS FIRE

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — (U.P.) — Fire hazards are numerous in California's high mountain country, but the camera has added a new one to the list. Forest rangers reported a grass fire was started near Camino when the sun beat was focused by the lens of a vacationer's camera.

$55,000,000 Mortgage Filed Here Sets 3 County Records

A mortgage filed with County Recorder Howard Wenning yesterday by the Ohio Power company set three records for the Richland county recorder's office, Wenning said.

It contained 218 pages in book form, making it the largest in volume. It was for $55,000,000, the largest amount involved in a mortgage here, and it brought the county a $115 filing fee, believed the largest in the history of the office.

Stenographers in the office looked with some concern on the huge document, because all of its 218 pages must be typed into the county records. The three troubled typists wondered just how long it will take them to do the job, working in shifts.

A copy of the mortgage, which was given to the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company in New York to secure a $55,000,000 bond issue, was filed here because the Ohio Power company has holdings in Richland county. Copies also were filed in 38 other Ohio counties and in West Virginia, Wenning said.

The $115 filing fee was computed on the basis of 12 cents per 100 words with an additional five cents for each name to be indexed. The fee for most real estate mortgages is 90 cents, the minimum under the state law.

Having Children Big Question

(One of a Series)
By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

What Makes Marriage Successful?

If you are engaged to be married and disposed to think of life with your beloved as a prolonged twosome, spare a thought to the children.

For babies will come; they ought to come. Babies are, as a matter of fact, what marriage is for. These unborn human beings, however, won't have a square deal unless they are prepared for in advance. It's not just milk and fresh air that they need, but a welcoming love.

If I were a twenty-year-old and about to be married, I should be especially interested to notice how the boy, or the girl, whom I wished to marry, behaved toward children. For my own part, I like a girl who is always willing to leave her own companions to pick up a child that has fallen in the street or to dress her little sister's doll or to soothe a fretful baby.

Boys may have their own way of betraying a sympathetic heart. I've seen youths who were surly and unkind when children innocently disturbed them or threatened to interfere with their work or pleasure. I've seen others who would go out of their way to play ball with a lonely youngster or to teach him to swim or perhaps just laugh and joke with him. I assure you it's the latter type that a girl does well to marry.

What kind of a marriage is it whose partners regard the coming of a baby as a disaster and the little creature himself as an interloper?

How would you like, in his case, to be grudged your very existence? To be considered an unwelcome consumer of your young mother's time and strength and an expense that your small-salaried father thinks he can't afford? To be compared unfavorably with the amusements that your parents were free to indulge in before you barged into their lives and settled down for good? To be ranked far below dancing or bridge or tennis, and sourly accepted as a handicap to living?

Parents of this type haven't, of course, waked up.

There's a much sounder basis for family happiness when the young pair knows from the beginning that they love and want children, and when they make an intelligent effort to understand how these children should be treated once they have arrived.

A REAL FINE ART

Defensive unblocking, to prevent yourself being thrown into the lead, is a real fine art. It requires foresight in the ability to infer what the declarer is trying to do. It also calls for courage to count upon your partner's being able to win the trick which otherwise was yours. No prettier defensive plays are even seen than these, which involve tossing away an honor that apparently is destined to be a winner.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable).

The bidding on this deal was 1-Diamond by South, 2-Diamonds by North and 5-Diamonds by South.

The heart K was led by West and won with South's A. Hating to risk the chance of the spade finesse, which he could not afford to lose in addition to two hearts, declarer led out his five diamond tricks, carefully watching the discards of the opponents. West was obliged to keep his spade Q and club Q guarded, so discarded one of his hearts.

South next tackled the club suit with the idea of throwing West in with the third round. Depending again on his partner, West threw the club Q on the second round. This fooled South, who figured that West had no more clubs. Declarer then used a heart to throw in West, who stunned South when he came through with his J and cashed two hearts.

Use Cheese, Bananas In These

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

SIMPLE YET satisfying dishes—no cook ever has enough of them in her files. So we crash through with some beauties that are guaranteed to lend new interest to the table.

Banana cheese delight — how does that appeal to you? If it does, get together four peeled, firm bananas, melted butter, salt, four slices toast, four strips bacon, cheese sauce. Brush bananas with the butter, sprinkle with salt, place five inches below heat and broil six to ten minutes; broil until bacon is tender and brown. Cut each banana in half and place two halves on each slice of toast. Pour cheese sauce over banana and garnish with the bacon.

Cheese Sauce.

To make the cheese sauce you will need one tablespoon each butter and flour, one-half teaspoon salt, wash pepper, dash paprika, one-half teaspoon prepared mustard, one cup milk and one-half cup diced American cheese. Melt the butter, then add flour and seasonings and blend. Add the milk and stir until thickened. Add cheese and place over hot water until melted. Stir smooth. It makes one cup, enough for four servings.

Ever try tamale pie? If not, line up two cups boiling water, one teaspoon salt, one-half cup cornmeal, one-quarter cup all-bran, two tablespoons fat, one finely-minced clove of garlic, one pound ground meat, one tablepsoon minced green pepper, two cups tomatoes, one tablespoon chili powder, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper and one-third cup grated cheese.

Add cornmeal to boiling water; cook until thick. Add all-bran and cook in double boiler 20 to 30 minutes. Pour into shallow greased pan and cool. Melt fat add garlic, meat and green pepper. Brown mixture slightly. Add remaining ingredients except cheese. Simmer about 15 minutes or until juice from vegetables has partially evaporated. Line sides and bottom of greased casserole with strips of cool mush. Pour in meat mixture. Cover with grated cheese. Brown in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 10 minutes. Its yield is eight servings.

Banana Muffins.

Banana tea muffins will give an added flavor to your next tea party, for these muffins offer a novel taste thrill. Ingredients comprise one and three-quarter cups sifted cake flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-quarter teaspoon soda, three-quarters teaspoon salt, one-quarter cup shortening, one-third cup sugar, one well-beaten egg and one cup mashed ripe bananas (2 or 3). Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Cream shortening until soft and smooth; then add sugar, gradually creaming until light and fluffy. Add flour alternately with bananas, beating each time until batter is smooth. Bake in well-greased small muffin pans in 400 degrees F. oven for about 20 minutes. It makes 16 small muffins. To mash bananas, slice into bowl, then beat with a fork, rotary beater or electric mixer until creamy.

Earrings Returning To Favor

By MME. QUI VIVE

With basques as prim as Priscilla, doughnut-sized hats trimmed with ostrich plumes, skirts that balloon, slippers with strings tied around the ankle, it is expected that earrings would return. Miss Simplicity seems to be evaporating; the frilly belle of the past has come back again. We're going in for fluff stuff at a fast pace and there's no telling what's on the way. Maybe we swoon whenever we feel like it, scream when we see a mouse. But we'll never be clinging vines again; too many of us are bringing home the bacon.

There's no bond between bobbed hair and carrings, a strong one between carrings and the uppity hair-do. With human sound receivers in the public eye, there's every reason why they should be adorned.

Even though rouge is not applied to the cheeks, it should be swept lightly over the ear lobes. A touch on the eye lids is not to be sneezed at. Makes eyes cook up a sparkle.

When selecting your earrings—and what fun that's going to be—you must keep in mind that day time wear ornaments can't be extreme or ornate. For evening you may carry those of barbaric splendor, feel like Cleopatra. In the less flattering daylight restrain your beauty indulgence.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"I WISH I knew," I told Miss Whitlock in answer to her question as to what I thought Avis Arlen would do.

"Please go into your suite," I told her, "switching off all lights as you go. I will come over immediately."

She turned away, and as noisily as I could without slamimng it and awakening Mary, I closed the door I was holding. Then, with my flashlight picking out my path, I hurried back into the nurse's suite, finding it in darkness as I had asked. Going to the door, I set it slightly ajar again.

Not Sure Why.

I was not sure for just what I was watching, but something told me that the events of the evening were not yet over, and I meant to let no further chapter go unread.

It was perhaps a quarter of an hour that we stood motionless behind the door, so slightly ajar that I was sure no one could detect it was open unless he came and stooped to the lock. The we saw the door of Avis' apartment open, and I knew that she was peering into the hall.

Evidently satisfied, she closed it again, and with quickened tension, I listened for a sound I was sure was coming.

It came at the end of two more minutes, the sound of the rising elevator. Mr. Milner must have been waiting at the telephone, and Avis must have telephoned the office as soon as she had satisfied herself that nobody was in the hall.

The elevator stopped at the floor below us. I heard Miss Whitlock draw in her breath, and knew that she was disappointed. But in another minute we heard stealthy footsteps ascending the stairs, and another 30 seconds brought the heads of the manager and the hotel housekeeper into view at the last turn of the stairway.

Went to Avis' Suite.

My first impulse was to close the door, but reflection told me that neither of the stealthily moving figures would put a hand upon our doors again, and I stood motionless while the manager and the housekeeper passed the door behind which we were standing, and went steadily on to the door of the suite next to ours behind which Avis stood.

The door opened wider, showing that the room beyond was in darkness as was our own. The manager and the housekeeper passed through, and the door swung shut after them. At the slight sound it made, my own pent-up breath released itself sharply. Then closing and locking the door against which I was leaning, I whispered, "A light please," to Miss Whitlock, and when she had turned the switch, I fairly fell into the nearest chair, feeling as if I had been racing madly up a hill.

"Can I get you anything?" Miss Whitlock asked solicitously.

"No, thank you," I returned. "I'll just sit here until I get my bearings."

She waited quietly until I spoke again.

Dangerous Angle.

"She must have telephoned the manager to come up as soon as she thought we were off our guard," I said at last, more to myself than to her, for this last action of Avis' had suddenly confronted me with a new—and more dangerous—angle of the problem of espionage upon us.

"But why should she do that when she was apparently so anxious to get off by herself?"

The nurse's voice was puzzled, but it was my own bewilderment I answered as much as hers.

"I wonder," I said slowly, "if she were telling the truth when she showed such fear of Mt. Veritzen's knowing she was here."

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, October 27.

ALTHOUGH there are auguries of some degree of success, expansion and financial advantage on this day, according to the planetary configurations, there also are signs of danger, distrust and possible disaster. It might also be advisable to be alert to plots and schemes, or other forms of subtlety or intrigue.

Those whose birthday it is are under the rule of a rather contradictory state of affairs. There is presage of gain, expansion and satisfaction. At the same time, there is a menace of loss, accident or harm to person or property. Subtle, undercover and sinister machinations also call for vigilance.

A child born on this day may be keen, aiert, fairly ambitious and enterprising, but it also may be subject to certain phases of defeat through subtle enmities, intrigues or because of bodily perils. It may be interested in occult or mystical studies and investigation.

A marshmallow dropped in a cup of hot cocoa just before serving makes a delicious hot drink.

FIRE CHECKED, 983 SAFE ON GERMAN LINER

Charred Deutschland Heads to Port After Seamen Bring Blaze Under Control.

"Fire under control!"

Hour later, the home office of the Deutschland in Hamburg was advised by the master that the fire was completely controlled, that ship and passengers were no longer in danger.

Most passengers retired in the early morning hours to safe but troubled slumbers.

Capt. Steincke said not a single passenger was injured and that he hoped to continue to New York soon.

The middle-sized 15-year-old ship, pride of the post-war German republic when it was launched with great fanfare by the then President Ebert, left Hamburg last Thursday and was due in New York next Friday.

It is of 21,046 tons and is similar to three other ships built by the Hamburg American for the transatlantic service—the Hansa, the New York and the Hamburg.

The southeasterly gale and rain sweeping the Newfoundland banks increased the Deutschland's peril while the fire was raging in the hold.

Fear was felt that the rescuers would be unable to reach the liner in time to take off passengers or that the gale would whip the flames beyond control should they leap out of the hold.

The rough seas added also to the danger of abandoning ship in life boats and on rafts.

Passengers were at dinner, dancing or in the cocktail lounges when the dread cry of "Fire!" swept the ship. First efforts to confine the blaze apparently were futile but the flames did not disable the radio.

Finally quelling the immediate danger, Captain Steincke and his radio operator set to the task of turning back all but three of the ships racing to help.

Some had been deemed too far away to help in any case, but several large and small craft kept bearing toward the ship long after it was out of immediate danger.

Vessels which proceeded to stand by in case of further need were the American traveler, the S. S. Collamer and the Norwegian ship Europe.

Many times while the terrific race was on, ships advised their bases that the Duetschland "did not say anything about the fire being under control yet."

Captain Tells Story of Deutschland Fire.

(Editor's Note: The following is the story of the fire aboard the Hamburg-American liner Deutschland as related by the vessel's master in a ship-to-shore telephone conversation with the Associated Press.)

By CAPT. KARL STEINCKE
Master of the S. S. Deutschland
(By Ship-to-Shore Telephone)

The fire has been extinguished, we are in no danger and we hope to have the Deutschland in New York harbor Friday about 7 o'clock in the evening.

The passengers behaved admirably. They were quiet and some of them didn't even seem to be aware that anything was happening.

The fire was in No. 2 hold where we were carrying a general cargo. I don't know yet how the fire started. You ask who discovered it. I'll tell you it discovered itself. Understand? Smoke began coming up and we knew there was a fire.

The sea was very quiet at that time—at 9 o'clock last night. The first class passengers were seeing a movie and the third class people were dancing.

I can't say at this time how much damage we suffered. Our whole crew went to work on the fire, 392 men, and we smothered it.

HOUNDS TRAIL SLAYER SUSPECT

Officers Hunt Trio Accused of Shooting Police Chief.

JACKSON, Ga. — (AP) — Officers with blood hounds searched today for three colored men, one of them described by Sheriff G. T. Thurston as the slayer of Charles T. Thornton, 54-year-old Jackson police chief.

Sheriff Thurston said Thornton, veteran of 18 years service, died with his service pistol in his hand early last night after being shot by one of the trio.

Discharged shells in Thornton's pistol showed he had fired three times at his assailants who escaped on foot, Thurston said. Thornton had picked them up for questioning at a store.

U. S. 'POWERS' HIT, DEFENDED

Taft Says Authority Given New Deal Threatens, Bulkley Sees It Help.

which, the senator declared, were shown in a sworn statement to have exceeeded $100,000. However, neither candidate regarded contributions and expenditures as more than incidental in the campaign. Taft said his expenses were high because "I had no free help of federal employes" but added that his expenses were "no issue."

In assailing the New Deal's "increasing demand for power," Taft cited as an example the supreme court bill and said the "time has come for Senator Bulkley to tell the people whether he will vote for another supreme court bill."

Two resignations from the court "have changed conditions," the senator replied, and "there is no longer a need for the proposed change." He denied Taft's claim that the court bill would be reintroduced.

New Deal power, Taft said, lay in "a policy of spending government money for relief and public works without any regard whatever to the necessity of keeping within the government's income;" "the direct use of relief;" "large expenditures of public funds for farm control," and the president's personal power.

"No president has ever exercised such power and yet the effort is to increase that power," he contended.

In answering his opponent's charges Bulkley accused Taft of generally denouncing the New Deal program without offering any corrective measures.

"My opponent has not said where he would begin to cut expenditures. Does it mean, Mr. Taft," he asked, "that you're going to cut off relief expenditures until the budget is balanced? If that's what you mean, I agree with Harry Hopkins (WPA administrator) that 90 per cent of the people are going to vote the Democratic ticket."

To support his contention that the federal government must be strong to ward off threats of economic control by private business the senator cited 1,268 mergers in manufacturing and mining alone between 1919 and 1928.

He cited also the control by eight companies of four-fifths of the anthracite coal in the United States.

Bulkley declared Taft's argument was "not one against me but one against the president, and it comes with poor grace."

The fourth debate was free of disturbances which interrupted arguments in the third meeting at Cincinnati last Friday.

CIVIC MUSIC TICKETS GO OUT

Made Available So Members May Attend Sandusky Concert.

Season tickets for the Mansfield Civic Music association will go into the mail tonight to members, Rev. David N. Roller, president, said today.

They will be received by members in time to attend the Don Cossack chorus concert tomorrow night at Sandusky.

A membership ticket permits the holder to attend any Civic Music association presentation where the auditorium has a seating capacity greater than the number of tickets sold.

Sandusky has about three hundred seats available for out of town members.

The first program in Mansfield will be Nov. 18 when Hortense Monath pianist, is presented. The highlight of the season will be the appearance here on Jan. 31 of Marian Anderson, colored contralto. The third number will be the distinguished violinist, Zimbalist, on Feb. 23.

"You don't want that to stop do you?" he asked.

He said the Roosevelt administration established the WPA program and declared that "if we don't continue that program there'll be about 400,000 colored folks who will starve to death."

He claimed that WPA adult education classes had been instrumental in reducing Negro illiteracy.

"Did you ever hear of the Republicans doing anything like that?" Brown asked.

"No, but they'll come around and offer you a couple dollars to vote for them."

Brown was preceded to the platform by Attorney Harry E. Bonaparte of Columbus who also urged colored voters to "pledge themselves to the Democratic party and support the entire ticket."

Other speakers were Thomas J. Davis, president of the Ohio Democratic colored league of Cleveland; Ralph C. Lutz, candidate for re-election to the general assembly; C. L. Mitchell, candidate for re-election as county commissioner; Norman L. Wolfe, candidate for re-election as county auditor; John Correll, president of the Richland county Young Democratic club, and John C. O'Donnell, Richland county Democratic executive committee chairman.

Fred Alexander, president of the Crispus Attucks club was in charge of the meeting, which was followed with dancing with music by the Rhythm Swingsters.

Sixth Ward Rally.

Tomorrow night Sixth Ward Democrats will rally at Hedges school at 7:30 p. m. for the first of a series of ward meetings that will continue through next week. The speakers at the meeting will be Attorney J. Howard Gongwer, and Assistant Richland County Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz.

Saturday night William J. Kennedy, candidate for re-election as secretary of state, and Congressman-at-large Stephen M. Young will be the principal speakers at a district rally at Democratic headquarters on West Fourth street.

Kennedy, hailed as the "firebrand" of the Ohio Democratic party, announced several weeks ago that "Ohio Democrats would not welcome" outside help in the election campaign, which was presumably aimed at Charles West, the president's contact man, after he announced plans for a speaking program throughout the state.

Accompanying Bricker was William P. Barnum of Youngstown, Republican candidate for congress in the 19th district.

Thomas J. Herbert, Republican candidate for attorney general, said last night in an address at Cleveland that his opponent, Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy, "approved a bill for $172.50 for 23 hours of work allegedly done on the 31st of February."

"I should like to have my opponent explain what calendar is used in his office," said Herbert, remarking that "Feb. 31" was a date "which has never existed."

"It was apparently not an ordinary error," Herbert added, "because the (creditor) firm on the following months submitted a bill for work done on March 1, 1938."

Dies, Rebuked By Roosevelt, Defends Committee Acts

TESTIMONY AT UN-AMERICAN HEARING HIT

President Scores Statements Charging Gov. Murphy Was Guilty of Treason.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)—Chairman Martin Dies, D., Tex., of the house committee investigating un-American activities charged today that President Roosevelt is misinformed concerning the inquiry and that cabinet members have aided "a campaign of misrepresentation" against the house committee.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt's rebuke of the house committee on un-American activities brought from Chairman Dies (D-Tex) today a declaration that he would continue to do his "duty undeterred and unafraid."

Dies took direct issue with the chief executive, who accused the committee of making no effort to learn the truth of testimony that Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan had acted treasonably during a sit-down strike early last year.

"Under my conception of public duty," Dies said, "it would have been wrong to shield Governor Murphy simply because he was a Democrat and a strong friend of the president."

Mr. Roosevelt, on the other hand, asserted the committee has permitted itself "to be used in a flagrantly unfair and un-American attempt to influence an election." (Murphy is running for another term).

Charges 'Treason.'

Murphy's name had come before the committee last Friday during an inquiry into the question of whether Communists had a hand in Michigan sit-down strikes.

John M. Barringer, former Republican city manager of Flint, Mich., testified the governor was guilty of "treasonable action in not giving us help when we should have had it" during a strike in the Fisher Body plant.

Paul V. Godola, a Republican judge who granted a writ for ejection of the strikers, said Murphy had prevented Sheriff Thomas Wolcott from carrying out the order.

Questioned about the testimony at press conference yesterday, Mr. Roosevelt said he preferred to write out a statement. In it, he spoke of "the absurdly false charges made by a coterie of disgruntled Republican office holders against a profoundly religious, able and law-abiding governor."

The committee allowed its witnesses to make "lurid charges" against Murphy, Mr. Roosevelt said, "without attempting to elicit from them facts as to their undeniable bias and their charges and without attempting to obtain from the governor or, for that matter, from any responsible motor manufacturer, their version of the events.

"Most fair-minded Americans," he added, "hope that the committee will abandon the practice of merely providing a forum to those who for political purposes or otherwise, seek headlines which they could not otherwise obtain."

Former Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald, Murphy's Republican opponent, commented:

"President Roosevelt has attempted to purge other states of public officials he did not like. In Michigan he is interested in saving one he does like."

Ohio Girl Admits Kidnaping Story Hoax, Officer Says

SPRINGFIELD —(AP)— Sixteen-year-old Oscarena Navarro told juvenile court authorities today, Chief Probation Officer Alice Stewart said, that she fabricated a story of being kidnaped because she was afraid to return home.

The girl left home Sept. 6, Miss Stewart said, because she disliked going to school, worked as a domestic for a Dayton family until last Saturday when she went to Columbus after mailing a "ransom note" to her father here.

She was held for juvenile court where, records showed, she was taken previously for cutting classes.

Up and Down THE STREET

As far as Mansfield Boy Scouts are concerned, the greatest of all mysteries is where their Hallowe'en party will be held Friday night. Only the six officials making arrangements for the annual event know the location. Friday morning they will mail to all scoutmasters instructions telling them how to get to the party site from their own meeting place. Each troop, following its scoutmaster, will leave early Friday evening for the designated place.

Gene Harmon's fame as a footballer is spreading. The young Madison high back, who is second high scorer in the state, with 109 points to his credit, was given a boost for his performance this season in a round-up story on high school football in Ohio written by Fritz Howell, Ohio sports editor of the Associated Press. The story was widely printed throughout the state.

County commissioners just missed harvesting a crop of tomatoes this fall right on the courthouse lawn. When they ordered the southwest section of the lawn re-seeded last summer, they unknowingly got a tomato plant along with some fertile top soil that was spread over the lawn. The plant was permitted to grow along the sidewalk and produced more than 20 tomatoes which were nipped by the frost before they had ripened.

Cold weather is just around the corner, take it from C. L. Miller of Steam Corners, who never misses observing weather signs. Miller reports he saw a flock of about 250 wild geese headed for the warmer southern climes yesterday. And the southward flight of geese never fails as a sign of winter, Miller says.

The Mansfield lodge, 341, Loyal Order of Moose, will join in the nation-wide celebration of the 25th anniversary of the founding of the model child city in Mooseheart, Ill., Thursday.

Firth Griffith, dictator of the lodge, announced that Mansfield members will stage a program and a dance to mark the event at 8:30 p. m. Thursday. A special Mooseheart class of 15 candidates was initiated by the lodge last night.

A feature of the nation-wide celebration will be a one hour radio broadcast on a NBC hook-up at 9:15 p. m. The program will originate from various points over the country, with the speakers including Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, director general of the lodge, and Judge Roy H. Williams of the Ohio Supreme court, who is supreme dictator.

TRAFFIC VICTIMS TAKEN TO HOME

2 Boys Hit By Car Leaving School Bus In Hospital 6 Weeks.

Herbert to Address Final Big Rally of Campaign; Crabbe Speaks Here Tonight.

Davey, Ralph M. Hardy, county Republican executive chairman, today produced a letter from Mrs. Mildred Jaster, wife of the state highway director and Democratic national committeewoman, in which she urged Richland county Democrats to support Sawyer in the campaign.

The letter, which had been mailed to a Democratic leader in the county, "is sufficient proof that the Davey forces are backing Sawyer and not Bricker," Hardy said.

Mrs Jaster backed Gov. Davey in the primary campaign. Sawyer has charged that the governor has swung his support to Bricker in return for 30 per cent of the state patronage if Bricker is elected.

Republicans Thursday night will launch a series of meetings in widely scattered sections of the county with a session in the American Legion hall at Shiloh. Atty. Theodore Lutz of Shelby and county candidates will speak.

Other meetings will be held Friday night in Shelby and Saturday night in Plymouth.

The Young Republican club will sponsor a dance Saturday night at headquarters in Mansfield, marking the younger group's first public activity in the campaign.

LIBRARY TO OPEN FIRST BRANCH IN ITS HISTORY AT CITY SCHOOL

The first public branch to be added to the Mansfield Public library in its history will be opened next month at the Newman street school, Miss Lois MacKellar, librarian, announced today.

The branch will be open to the general public but is particularly for adults and school children in that section of the city, Miss MacKellar said.

The project, which library heads have tried to put over for a number of years, is made possible by additional funds from the county budget for another library staff worker and funds from the state aid for extension work which may be used for books. The Mansfield board of education is giving a room in the school building.

While the library has set up a number of extension stations over the county and two in the city, the Newman branch will be the first complete public branch to be operated by a member of the library staff.

The branch will be ready for use during Children's Book week, Nov. 13, with Miss Virginia Chew of the main library staff in charge. The room is in the southeast corner of the building and may be reached through the east entrance without entering any other part of the building.

It will be open on Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons from 2 to 4, and on Monday, Wednesday evenings from 7 to 9. The first collection will include more than 1,000 volumes of fiction and non-fiction for adults and junior reading. Tables and chairs for children will be purchased by the Parent-Teacher association of the school.

Miss Marjorie Kerr, 588 South Diamond street, will be added to the staff starting Nov. 1, Miss MacKellar said.

PROSECUTOR IN 'PADDING' CASE MARKING TIME

Herner, Schweller Accused of False Expense Accounts in Grand Jury Report.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — The Franklin County Prosecutor waited today for two former members of the Ohio legislature to surrender and answer indictments charging them with receiving payments on false warrants drawn against the treasury.

Prosecutor Ralph J. Bartlett said former Sen. William H. Herner, Monroeville, and former Rep. Julian Schweller, Fort Jennings, would be given a "reasonable" time to appear voluntarily. Both are Democrats.

They were accused in the indictments of padding expense accounts, most of the questioned items being hotel bills, while each was serving as a member of the state board of control.

Headed Committees.

Herner was chairman of the senate finance committee and Schweller, chairman of the house finance committee, by virtue of these chairmanships, both served in 1935 and 1936 on the board of control, state emergency board and sundry claims board.

Conviction could bring no more severe penalty than jail sentences and fines, 30 days and $200 maximum on each count, as the size of the sums in question make the alleged offenses misdemeanors, Prosecutor Bartlett explained.

The indictment against Schweller contained 101 counts and accused him of receiving a total of $433 illegally. There were 15 counts in the Herner true bill and the sum, $82.

Once before, 1933, a Franklin county grand jury indicted Herner, but when he stood trial he was acquitted by directed verdict of charges of soliciting a bribe. Defeated for re-election in 1936, he is again running for state senator from the 30th-33rd district.

Schweller was Putnam county's representative in the house for four terms, being first elected in 1929.

PAIR DROWNED

Former Lexington Couple Dies in Florida Tragedy.

Relatives here had been informed today of the drowning of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Coleman, former residents of Lexington and Bellville, at Bradenton, Fla., Monday afternoon.

Details of the tragedy were not learned immediately, Mrs. Otis Miller, Mansfield, receiving a telegram telling only of the drowning.

Mrs. Miller, who is a sister of Mrs. Coleman, left yesterday for Florida. Mrs. Frank Mitchell of Coleman road, Mansfield, is a cousin of Mrs. Coleman.

Mr. and Mrs. Coleman left Richland county about 10 years ago and lived for a time in Ravenna before going to Florida.

DEATH CLAIMS EX-MERCHANT

Fred W. Berg, 78, Lived Entire Life in City; Rites Thursday.

Fred William Berg, 78, of 119 Penn avenue, who conducted a clothing and haberdashery business in Mansfield prior to his retirement 20 years ago, died at his home Tuesday afternoon after a brief illness.

Mr. Berg was born in the city, Aug. 20, 1860 and spent his entire life here. He is survived by his wife, Etta, and a sister, Emma of Mansfield. He was a member of the First Lutheran church.

Services will be held at the Finefrock funeral home at 2:30 p. m. Thursday with Rev. Grover F. Swoyer officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

BURY WAR VET

SHELBY—Funeral services for Fred W. Kreider, 66, a Spanish-American war veteran, who died Sunday at his home in Barberton, were held today at the Hillard funeral home in that city with Rev. L. B. Bradrick of the Barberton Methodist church officiating. Burial was made in Oakland cemetery, Shelby.

Surviving are his wife, Ida, formerly of Shelby; one brother, Clare of Wadsworth, and two sisters, Mrs. Ellis Long of Wadsworth and Mrs. Fred Roshon of Medina.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Why Try to Garnish Bums with Phony Luster? Their Lot Is Their Own Making

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—There is a down-under school of writing in this country which counterfeits ability with dirty words and blandly helps itself to the assumption that because the world is out of step with a small element of congenital bums, drunkards and thieves, the world is in the wrong.

Conclusions are not given, but there is a tendency to argue that communism is the only answer, although there is no evidence from those who have written either for or against communism that the no-goods, incompetents and misanthropes fare any better in the U. S. S. R. than they do here.

Persons who have seen bums only in the phony soulfulness of the fiction version created by the dirty-neck and flannel-shirt literati are at a disadvantage in the presence of such reading, for they have no background of personal observation of experience. They fall easily for a suggestion that there but for the grace of God go they, which could be so in certain individual cases, forgetting, however, that character, diligence and determination are forces which will always stand between most men and the jungle.

* * *

Others, however, know better. They know that bums are not local to the United States but exist in all countries which permit men to become bums if that is their bent, instead of forcing them into the ranks or the dead storage camps of the dictator, and are not deceived.

There is no more truth in the thought that a bum is a bum from force of circumstances and from no causes existing within himself than there is in the old American superstition that gypsies kidnap children, preferably children with golden hair and blue eyes.

Possibly some gypsies did kidnap some children a long time ago, but from the time of Charlie Ross on down through the cases of Katherine Winters, Billy Whitla and Bobby Glass, gypsies have in no famous instance been shown responsible. One wretched father pursued to Central Europe and Central America rumors that his little boy had been seen in the camps of gypsies, only to find the child's skeleton years afterward in a Pennsylvania mountain thicket not a mile from the summer cottage from which he had wandered off.

* * *

The biography of Jack London, the Boswell of the bums, reveals not only an understanding of the type but a community of traits, and while it were inhuman to lack pity for the misery of the mildewed bo, as for any suffering creature, it does not follow that to deny him heroic qualities is to cheat him of his due.

There was for a considerable time an Alaskan school of writing known, I believe, as the "God, How the Wind Blew!" school, which would have endowed with superhuman qualities every man who took part in the gold rush. In after years the members of this helter-skelter community by common consent standardized their lies about the hardships and privations of those days in that frozen land, but, unfortunately for my own illusions, two of the veterans whom I knew best were two of the most fluent and imaginative liars I ever knew and the third had spent most of his time tending bar and dealing bank in a gambling house.

* * *

All of them were, barring very brief ventures out of doors, strictly house-cat prospectors who did their adventuring close to a red hot stove, and one often related with no qualms, even after all that time, that his most dependable source of revenue was the cheating of real prospectors who had risked chilblain and all the dangers of the trail through short-weight when weighing their pokes of dust.

He may have been lying about that, too, for the truth never was in the man, and his morals were such that he was once filed in a prison to repent.

* * *

The literature of degradation and filth, moral and physical, is not to be rejected outright merely because it is what it is, but the attempt to blame it all on something called the system or on the cruelty and indifference of people who are busy working out their own problems as well as their opportunities, intelligence and ability permit is subject to challenge.

Policemen and flop-house keepers develop a heartlessness toward bums as a class through practical experience, and no doubt their attitude is too general, for occasionally there must come along a stray whose greasy shirt covers a heart of gold.

But, in general, bums are just that, and the most notorious bum that the newspaper business produced in the days of the tramp reporter, though he came of an eminent, not to say good, family and could prattle Shakespeare, married women only to live on their hard-earned wages and was the more of a bum for the contrast between his advantages and the mess he was.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—If it surprised you Joan Crawford fans that she actually sought to play in something called "Ice Follies" the explanation is simple:

The role gives the girl a chance to sing; and

"Ice Follies," despite its name, is a very good script.

It was a good script when it was filmed before, and it should be good still. It's the stage play, "Excess Baggage" made in the silents with William Haines and Josephine Dunn, and a darn good movie it was. All about a vaudeville trouper whose wife wasn't helping much with the act, and was being "carried along" in kindness until the tables turned. Then the trouper's wife became the real star and the husband became the superfluous freight. They've adapted the story to ice—and Joan's the girl whose singing doesn't click in an ice circus but gets her a movie contract.

Reason enough for Joan to want it, but it may seem odd that Metro should take to the ice when that commodity already has been worn thin for movie purposes by Sonja Henie, whose need for stronger stories is so great that her next film is being postponed.

* * *

Metro figures, however, that it has a strong story in "Excess Baggage," and it figures also that the "Ice Follies" troupe will offer something different from the work familiarized by Sonja. The difference will lie in the work of skating comedians—the comedy in Sonja's film has never been on the ice.

Working in the picture by day, the "Follies" troupe is performing for the public here by night. Opening night the rinkside looked like a Hollywood convention — with Joan Crawford there with Cesar Romero, Janet Gaynor with Gilbert Adrian, the designer, the Richard Barthelmesses, the Harold Lloyds, Virginia Bruce and husband, J. Walter Ruben.

They saw a good show—beauty, speed, skill, and comedy. Metro is hopeful of Bess Ehrhardt as a screen acting possibility, all skidding aside. In the comedy department—where they look to be different from Sonja—there's Heinie Brock, whose "drunk act" on skates has a Chaplinish quality that might mean something in pictures, and there's Les Hamilton and Eddie Shipstad and Oscar Johnson.

But if you see the "Follies" on tour, don't expect to see the same show in the movie. You can count on Metro to lavish things up. Those two tents in the Indian number will multiply, and they'll have gigantic totem poles, and a real campfire that singes the soundstage rafters.

Wallace Ford is going to Broadway, but to make a movie, "Home Town," for William K. Howard. . . . This new house at Malibu will be closed because wife Martha and daughter are going along. . . . House is called "Martha's Vineyard"—after wife, not island.

Brilliant educational opportunity: the five-year-old selected to play the junior Tarzan in the jungle epics will have personal instruction from Johnny Weissmuller. . . . Papa's pedagogical vocabulary will be limited at usual to grunts and the well-known yell.

'Bonehead' Cause of Talk

Murphy Blames Quarterback

Officials Differ on Ruling

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor

THE prize "boner" that marked Notre Dame's 7 to 0 victory over Carnegie Tech in South Bend last Saturday remains the chief subject of conversation in football circles this week.

Referee John Getchell erred in informing Tech's quarterback, when the latter asked, that it was third down instead of fourth. The signal barker called a running play and Tech lost the ball on downs on its own 46-yard line. The inspired Irish scored three plays later with what proved to be the winning touchdown.

Controversy ignited by the incident has dominated the public prints this week. Some insist the referee should have corrected his error and given Tech another down. They contend that no team should be penalized by an official's error. Others say Getchell handled the situation correctly. Discussing the "wrong down" play with Mansfield coaches and officials, we learned that one coach and one official agreed with the referee's decision. The other two contended that Carnegie Tech should have been awarded another down.

Coach Russ Murphy of Mansfield high does not blame the referee as much as he does the Carnegie quarterback.

"The first principles taught football players are tactical situations —the down, the distance and time," Murphy said. "Of course, if a quarterback becomes confused, as he often does, it is permissible to check with an official.

"But if the official is wrong, as he was in South Bend, the team injured by the mistake has no comeback.

"It was an unfortunate situation," Murphy admitted, "but it looks to me like the quarterback should have known better, especially with the game as tight as it was."

* * * * *

'Most Atrocious,' Fendrick Calls Decision.

AL FENDRICK of Madison high differs with Murphy. He is of the opinion that the referee should have permitted Carnegie Tech another play.

"It was the most atrocious thing ever to occur in a football game," according to the Ram coach. "It can be compared only to the incident which marked the Army-Illinois game a few years ago when the Cadets' placement kick after a touchdown was disallowed because Beany Johnson, holding the ball, had his knee on the ground.

"Regarding the Notre Dame incident," Fendrick said, "I feel Coach Kern of Carnegie would have been justified in taking his team off the field.

"The way I look at it, the referee, after being reminded of his error, should have called both sides offside to permit Carnegie a chance to punt."

Mansfield football officials also differ on the matter. Bob Young, for instance, believes Getchell handled the situation as well as he could "under the conditions." Bill Keefe contends the play should have been recalled.

"There naturally are two points of view on the question," Keefe admitted, "but if placed in the same position, I believe I would have called the play back.

"It is hardly fair to penalize a team as Carnegie Tech was penalized at Notre Dame on a referee's error."

However, Keefe fails to see how the Carnegie quarterback could have become confused over the down with the down box and scoreboard visible.

Young also regards it unusual that the quarterback should have become confused. "But I think the referee handled the situation as well as could be expected under the conditions," Young said.

"About the only other thing Getchell could have done was to get the consent of the Notre Dame team to permit the Carnegie club another down."

Our contention is that Carnegie Tech was the victim of its own strategy. Had the Tartans gained the necessary yardage for a first down, the situation would never have developed.

Realizing that the referee had erred in calling the down the third, Carnegie probably figured it could gamble. If it failed to make the necessary yardage, it could request another down, believing, of course, that the official would not deny such a demand on his own error.

* * * * *

Irish Can't Be Blamed for Not Checking Downs.

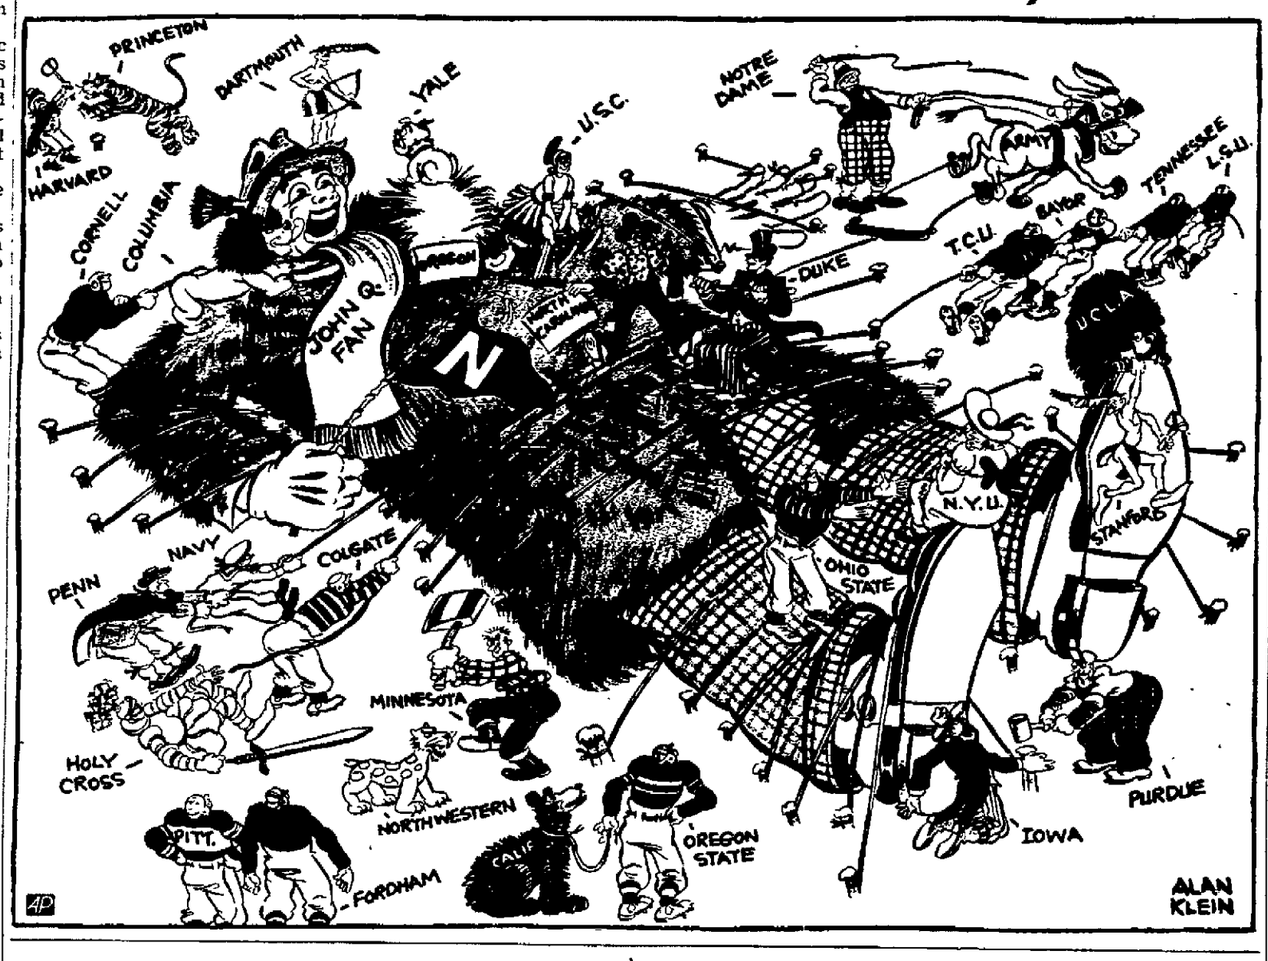
ONE OFFICIAL we spoke to about the incident was unable to understand why Notre Dame did not check the downs when the referee made the error. But this is easy to understand.

If Notre Dame, knowing it was fourth down, thought Carnegie Tech was under the impression it was third, it would be logical for the Irish to assume that Tech would call another running play, as they did. Then, if they should fail to make the yardage (Tech needed two yards for a first down) the ball would go to Notre Dame at that point, instead of after a punt and possible return. The odds were, since it was a tight ball game, that no return of a punt would bring the ball back to the Tech 46-yard line.

Tech did, of course, fail to make the first down. And when the ball went over to Notre Dame, the Irish were only 46 yards from a touchdown, instead of being deep in their own territory as they probably would have been if Tech had punted.

Madison, Butler Play at Home Thursday

A Happy Gulliver —By Alan Klein



Getchell Told 'to Forget' by Kern

MINNEAPOLIS—(U.P.)—Referee John Getchell revealed today he had received a telegram from Coach Bill Kern of Carnegie Tech telling him "to forget" the mistake he made Saturday in the Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech game at South Bend, Ind.

Notre Dame won the game 7-0. It might have been a scoreless tie, but toward the end of the game Getchell told the Carnegie quarterback it was third down, when it actually was the fourth. Carnegie made a line plunge and fumbled. Notre Dame recovered and went down the field for a touchdown.

Kern had been quoted as condemning the error and decision as "the worst bonehead play I ever saw." His wire said: "Reports of my comments on you personally very much exaggerated. Consensus of our squad and myself that we forget the whole thing. We all wish you the best of luck."

Hollingsworth's 651 Paces Tire Bowlers

Foremen's Team Star Rolls Games of 207, 238 and 206; Donnellan Next High With 623.

BOB HOLLINGSWORTH of the Foremen's team held the spotlight in the Mansfield Tire league at the Meder alleys last night as he produced a 651 series. Hollingsworth sandwiched a 238 game between a 207 and 206.

Bill Donnellan of the Maintenance team finished with a 236 for a 623 and Schmidt opened with a 224 to set the foundation for a 608.

Adams' Bantamweights Meet Summit County Team Sunday

Idle last week, Clyde Adams' bantamweight football team will meet the Summit County Children's home at the Fairground at 2:30 p. m. Sunday. According to Business Manager Al Hamilton, the Children's home has won three out of four games. The only defeat was administered by the Deluce Bismarcks of Akron, who won over the Mansfield club, 25 to 0, a week ago.

The Mansfield club is holding daily workouts for the tilt, and Coach Harry Dandadis expects to present a stronger club Sunday than he did against the Bismarcks.

Bushnell Grid Team Adds Fifth Straight

BUSHNELL'S grid forces gained undisputed possession of first place in the Grade School touch football league yesterday when they registered their fifth straight victory at the expense of Bowman, 12 to 0, at the Armory field. Brooks scored for Bushnell in the first and third periods.

West Fifth, Newman, Bowman and Western are tied for second place. Newman won over West Fifth, 6 to 2, Schwaner scoring the touchdown, at Columbia field, while Hedges and Western battled to a scoreless tie at North park.

In the other game, Brinkerhoff hung up its first victory by defeating Prospect, 12 to 0, at Hedges field. Bechell and Hall tallied for Brinkerhoff.

75,000 to See Pittsburgh Go

Close Observers Expect Rams to Be Tough.

PITTSBURGH—(U.P.)—When the powerful line and backfield of the Fordham Rams butt into the Pitt Panther Saturday, 75,000 football fans, the biggest crowd ever to watch a game here, will jam the University of Pittsburgh stadium to overflowing.

Despite the 3 to 1 odds established on Pitt by local bookmakers, those 75 000 people may see a game that is much tighter than anticipated. It generally is predicted that Pitt will win and end the goose-egg series of three consecutive scoreless ties, but close observers of past and present Pitt squads are not so sure.

Pitt's forward wall is not so brilliantly stable on defense when compared with the lines of 1936 and '37, and already has suffered one blow in the almost certain elimination of Walter Raskowski, first string right tackle, with foot injuries He is nursing an unusual hurt—torn toe ligaments—suffered while Pitt was swamping S. M. U. last Saturday, 34 to 7.

So far this year, Pitt's best defense has been its offense. Opponents haven't had their hands on the ball often enough or long enough at one time to prove whether the Pitt line could be cracked by sustained driving.

BARONS NOT READY FOR BIG TIME HOCKEY YET

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Hockey fans here who have said that the Cleveland Barons are ready to break into the big league of hockey stopped today to think it over again. In an exhibition here last night, the Barons were outskated and outplayed throughout by the Boston Bruins. The visitors won, 8-4. The Chicago Blackhawks, world title holders, meet the Cleveland team here Saturday night in another exhibition.

JANIAK TOPS SCORERS

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Len Janiak, Ohio U. fullback, assumed the individual scoring leadership among Ohio college gridders today with a 48-point total by reason of a field day that netted him 22 points Saturday against Wayne U.

NEW YORK—Jackie "Kid" Berg, 147¼, London, outpointed Joey Greb, 145¾, Herkimer, N. Y., (8).

LAZZERI FREE TO SHOP AROUND FOR NEW JOB

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—Tony Lazzeri, former second-baseman of the New York Yankees who came to the Cubs last year as player-coach, was free today to shop around for a major league managerial position, but if a pilot's job is not forthcoming he can return to Chicago next season.

Reports from San Francisco quoting "Poosh 'Em UP" Tony as saying he had been released by the Cubs, were denied by Club Owner Phil Wrigley.

Bucks Work On Pass Defense for Violet Game

By JIM EMERSON

COLUMBUS — Forward pass defense, one of the weakest links in the Ohio State football armor, in the first four games, will undergo another severe aerial bombardment Saturday when the Bucks play New York U.

Coach Mal Stevens of N. Y. U. has long been noted for his tricky aerial attack and today he indicated some new surprises would be in store for Ohio State at the New York Polo Grounds.

Reports from the big city disclosed Stevens had juggled his varsity backfield, promoting Al Campinis and Stan Mikulka to right halfback and fullback, respectively, following their fine performances in the Violets' 7 to 6 losing battle against Lafayette.

The Bucks will be heavy favorites to win Saturday and Stevens therefore can afford to shoot his aerial fireworks from all angles in an attempt to turn the tide.

His passing attack may be just what the Bucks need before facing their last three foes—Purdue, Illinois and Michigan—for a share of the Big Ten championship.

The Big Ten trio are almost certain to concentrate on forward passing against the Bucks in view of past performances. To date, four Ohio State opponents have attempted 89 passes and completed 25, not a high percentage of success but dangerous and good for 405 yards. Moreover, many of the attempted heaves were grounded by reason of inept pitching and catching rather than alertness by the Buck defensive players.

Pass defense occupied a prominent place in the Buck practice program today as Coach Francis Schmidt and his aids drilled the Scarlet machine for Saturday's tilt.

Rams to Tackle Tyger Reserves

Bellville Goes to Ashley Friday Afternoon; Shelby Performs at Marion.

THIS week's schedule offers football followers games on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Opening this week's football card are afternoon games at Madison and Butler Thursday with a nocturnal game on schedule at Willard.

Friday will find the usual number of afternoon and night contests, with th Mansfield high Tygers again virtually holding the stage to themselves on Saturday.

Scheduled at 3 P. M.

Coach Al Fendrick's Rams will engage the Mansfield high reserves at the Madison field at 3 p. m. Thursday. The game had been pending for several weeks, but it was not definitely scheduled until Monday.

This game fills the only open date on the Madison schedule, and will offer the Rams a chance to strengthen their scoring total, which is tops in Ohio scholastic circles.

However, the Mansfield reserves should offer the Rams one of their best games of the season. The junior Tygers held Loudonville to a 7 to 7 tie last week.

Loudonville, which is a future Madison foe, provides the opposition for Butler Thursday. The Bulldogs bowed to Centerburg last week, but they should be anything but pushovers for the Red Birds, whose only defeats were administered by Ashland and Bellville.

Fostoria, which has won six straight ball games this season and allowed only three touchdowns, plays at Willard Thursday night.

Friday afternoon games in the district will take Bellville, still unbeaten, to Ashley, Danville to Mt. Gilead and Clearview to New London. Shelby performs at Marion in the only N. C. O. conference game on schedule. Bucyrus goes to Fremont, Galion invades Rossford and Marion St. Mary's plays at Crestline in Friday night contests.

Jackets at Ashland.

Another N. C. O. game will take Mt. Vernon to Ashland Saturday afternoon. This game shares the program with the Mansfield-Akron Kenmore game at Staudium field.

Ex-Indian Traded To Champion Yanks

ST. LOUIS — (INS) — The St. Louis Browns announced today they had traded pitcher Oral Hildebrand, formerly of Cleveland, and outfielder Buster Mills to the world champion New York Yankees for catcher Joe Glenn and outfielder Myril Hoag. Vice President Bill Dewitt of the Browns said the transaction involved no cash.

Harmon Overcomes Effects of Great Reputation.

By ERNEST BARCELLA

CHICAGO — (U.P.) — Less than a month ago, football coaches at the University of Michigan pondered a starting lineup for the opening game of the season. They studied the name "Harmon" carefully, then shook their heads and decided —"too much pressure for a green kid."

So Tommy Harmon hugged the bench as his teammates raced out on the field for the kickoff against Michigan State. But that was the last time Tommy was omitted from the starting lineup, because he finally got his chance and proved that his coaches had him figured all wrong.

If you follow your football carefully, you know what happened. Tommy started the next game against Chicago and ran 59 yards for a touchdown. He sparked the 90-yard touchdown drive that nearly netted an upset victory over Minnesota. Tommy provided the shot in the arm that enabled Michigan to come from behind and beat Yale last Saturday.

The story of Tommy Harmon, the Michigan football star, is the story of an 18-year-old young man who had to overcome the effects of the great reputation as a high school athlete.

When Tommy went to Ann Arbor in the fall of 1937, he was proclaimed by the "Grand Old Man" of Michigan football—Fielding H. (for Hurry-Up) Yost—"the greatest high school athlete of the year."

The fame that preceded Tommy at Michigan was achieved at Horace Mann high school in his native Gary, Ind. He twice was all-state quarterback and in 1936 scored seven touchdowns in one game. He was captain of the basketball team and an all-conference guard

Coals Challenged By Brown's Team

Theodore (Brownie) Brown, widely-known as backer of athletic teams in the city, today announced a challenge through The News-Journal for a football game with the Kallmerten & Baer Coals. Business Manager Johnny Villella of the Coals is requested to get in touch with Brown at Brown's Place immediately.

BOWLING GREEN TRAINER NEAR DEATH AFTER CRASH

BOWLING GREEN—(U.P.)—Herman "Doc" Berlin, 52, Bowling Green university athletic trainer, fought for his life in a Perrysburg hospital today as the result of injuries received in an automobile accident, nine miles north of here. Doctors said Berlin had a skull fracture and brain concussions.

He was returning to his home in Toledo last night after football practice. His car struck the rear of a trailer he was trying to pass, careened across the road and collided head-on with a car driven by Leonard Pike, 29, of Bowling Green.

AIRCRAFTS HOLD ATTENTION IN LOWER MARKET

Low Priced Motor Shares Also Watched by Traders; Steels Decline.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Aircraft issues and some low priced motor shares attracted attention at advancing prices in today's generally lower stock market.

Steels led the decline of the bulk of the list. Packard and Studebaker changed hands in rapid dealings at small advances. Boeing, Douglas, Martin, United Aircraft and Sperry added fractions to a point or so.

Most analysts seemed to feel the earnings of U. S. Steel, published after yesterday's close, were about what was to have been expected. Some said that making allowance for an unusual charge on account of its iron ore business, the showing was encouraging, and expressed the opinion rising operations might offset lower prices and boosted costs to allow a final quarter profit for "bit steel."

Pointing to further increases in the operating rate for the industry as a whole was the weekly review of "Iron Age" which said recent price cutting in rolled products, now ended, had brought in a rush of orders.

RESOLUTION NO. 38-176

By Mr. Miller:

Whereas, pursuant to Section 2 of Am. S. B. No. 462, enacted by 92nd General Assembly, 3rd Special Session, effective July 11, 1938, the Auditor of State certified to the Board of County Commissioners of Richland County, Ohio, on the 16th day of September, 1938, the maximum amount of the anticipated revenue of the 1938, 1939, 1940, 1941 January, 1942 yearly and monthly distribution of the excise taxes collected under the provisions of Section 1 of Am. S. B. No. 462, passed July 11, 1938, as One Hundred and Thirty-three Thousand Four Hundred and Thirty-two Dollars and Forty Cents ($133,432.40); and

Whereas, the Auditor of Richland County certified on the 23rd day of September, 1938, that under the provisions of Section 2 of Am. S. B. No. 462, the City of Mansfield is authorized to issue notes against said anticipated distribution of excise taxes in the total sum of Sixty Thousand, Seven Hundred and Ninety Dollars and Sixty-Seven Cents, ($60,790.67); and

Whereas, it is now deemed necessary to issue and sell notes in the amount of $60,500.00, which amount does not exceed said maximum amount of notes as certified to this Board by the Auditor of State as aforesaid, under authority of said Am. S. B. No. 462; now therefore:

BE IT RESOLVED, by the Council of the City of Mansfield, Richland County, Ohio, that for the purpose of providing funds for poor relief purposes for the year 1938 it is necessary to issue and there shall be issued and sold notes of said City of Mansfield under authority of Am. S. B. No. 462 of the 92nd General Assembly, 3rd Special Session, effective July 11, 1938, in the amount of $60,500.00 which amount is not in excess of the maximum amount of notes, as certified to this Council, as provided by Section 2 of said Am. S. B. No. 462.

Said notes shall be dated November 1, 1938, and be in the denomination of 12 notes of $5000.00 each and one note of $500.00 respectively, and be numbered 1 to 13 inclusive and they shall bear interest at the rate of not to exceed 4 per centum per annum, payable at maturity. Both principal and interest of said notes shall be payable at the office of the Treasurer of the City of Mansfield, Richland County, Ohio, upon presentation and surrender of said notes at maturity. Said notes shall be due and payable as follows:

Note No.	Date of Maturity	Amt.
1, 2, 3 on or before	Mar. 1, 1939,	$15,000
4, 5, 6 on or before	Mar. 1, 1940.	$15,000
7, 8, 9 on or before	Mar. 1, 1941,	$15,000
10, 11, 12, 13 on or before	Mar. 1, 1942.	$15,500

Said notes shall specify on their face the purpose for which they are issued, and that they are issued in pursuance of this Resolution and under authority of the General Laws of the State of Ohio, particularly Am. S. B. No. 462 of the 92nd General Assembly of the State of Ohio, 3rd Special Session, effective July 11, 1938, and shall be full general obligations of said City of Mansfield, and hereby pledged for the payment of the principal and interest thereon at maturity. That for the purpose of providing the necessary funds to pay the interest on the foregoing issue of notes, promptly when, and as the same falls due, and also to provide a fund sufficient to discharge the said notes at maturity, there shall be and is hereby levied on all the taxable property in said subdivision of Mansfield in addition to all other taxes, a direct tax annually during the period said notes are to run in an amount sufficient to provide funds to pay interest upon said notes and when the same falls due and also to provide funds for the discharge of the principal of said notes at maturity, which tax shall not be less than the interest and sinking fund tax required by Section 11 of Article 12 of the Constitution.

Said notes shall be signed by at least the Mayor in his own proper handwriting and by the City Auditor, and bear his seal.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the principal and interest of said notes shall be paid from the revenue obtained from the 1938, 1939, 1940, 1941, January, 1942, yearly and monthly distribution of excise taxes collected under the provisions of Section 1 of said Am. S. B. No. 462 and the said revenue is hereby pledged for the payment in full of said notes.

It is hereby determined that all acts, conditions and things necessary to be done precedent to and in the issuance of said notes in order to make the same legal, valid and binding obligations of said City of Mansfield, have been done, have happened and been performed in regular and due form as required by law. The clerk or assistant clerk of this Council is hereby authorized and directed to offer this issue of notes at par and accrued interest first to the Board of Trustees of the Sinking Fund of said City of Mansfield, and if refused, then to offer the same for the sale at private sale.

The City Auditor is hereby authorized to keep a record of the number, amount and rate of each note sold, the amount received for it, to whom sold and the time when payable.

Passed Oct. 4, 1938.

Firemen Kept on Jump, Make Four Runs In Six Hours

City firemen spent a busy afternoon yesterday answering four alarms within a six-hour period, two of which were recorded within a five minute interval, but none of which resulted in any serious damage.

Shortly after noon three companies, Nos. 1, 2, and 4, were called to the Westinghouse when an acetylene tank ignited. They reported no damage.

Companies Nos. 1 and 4 answered a call to the home of H. C. Hardy, 330 Wayne street, at 3:25 p. m. when a short circuit in an iron cord burned out the light socket. There was no fire.

A roast left on the stove while the family was absent caused neighbors to send in an alarm when they saw smoke seeping from the doors of the residence of H. Metzger, 49 Vale avenue. Firemen from companies Nos. 1 and 2 responded.

While answering that alarm, companies No. 1 and 4 were called to the vicinity of Pleasant avenue to extinguish a rubbish blaze.

Constant Suffering Found Needless

Says No Woman Knows What She Went Through.

Describes Losing Fight With Constipation Until She Tried Famous World's Tonic.

"No woman knows how much I suffered or the nervous condition I was in from constipation," says Mrs. John Hattery of 704 8th St., S. W., Massillon, O.

"I can hardly thank enough the friends who told me about World's Tonic. It gave me such grand relief from the long spells of suffering I've been through. My nerves were so quivery and jumpy that I couldn't sit still and got hardly any sleep at night. I'd awaken mornings with a tired, beaten feeling, blue and despondent with no desire to get about my housework. I had little appetite and dreaded eating because it meant so many unpleasant things. Gas pressing against my heart and a lump in my throat that would not go away.

"I'd have terrible pains in my back and sides and my skin began taking on a dry, rough and sallow appearance. The general feeling of stiffness and soreness was almost unbearable. It was a losing fight apparently until I started taking World's Tonic. This relieved my constipation in an amazing manner and then I could just feel all its painful and distressing results easing off one by one. I'm so happy to be able to eat properly and get a restful sleep at night. It seems that so much of our continual suffering appears needless and my present feelings are almost too good to be true."

Even the blood cells may be affected with poisonous waste matters accumulated by delayed elimination. Constipation is the beginning of most of these poisonous wastes and World's Tonic aims right at this beginning and relieves occasional constipation quickly, gently and surely. Thus, an ounce of prevention and you may not need that pound of cure.

Get World's Tonic at Central and all other leading Drug Stores.

FIND CATCH IN REPORT CAMP WILL BE KEPT

Backers Learn CCC Will Retain Loudonville Location Only for 6 Months.

Associated Press dispatches from Washington today revealed that the campaign to retain the CCC camp at Loudonville hadn't completely succeeded.

The dispatches said the CCC administration had agreed to maintain Camp Mohican for another six months, but there was no assurance that it would remain there indefinitely.

Yesterday, a telegram from Senator Robert J. Bulkley advised leaders of the fight to retain the camp that arrangements had been made to continue the camp. Opponents of the plan to move it assumed that to mean that the CCC had agreed to give up the move.

Hugo Young, of the Loudonville Chamber of Commerce, which has led the fight to keep the camp, said he had been advised that in any event the camp would remain at Mohican park for at least six months.

Continue Campaign.

Finding that they had made no material gain in their campaign, workers said they would continue to circulate petitions opposing the move and would continue to send them to the two Ohio senators and Congressman William A. Ashbrook, who have been attempting to win CCC approval for retention of the camp.

Several Mansfield groups have been circulating petitions, and said they would continue.

Davey In Office, It's News!

COLUMBUS—(INS)—It's news when Governor Davey visits the executive offices these days.

Hence, statehouse newsmen thought a big story was about to break when word spread through the capital late yesterday that Davey was in his office.

But they were wrong. The governor, it developed, after not being seen there since before the August primary, had come down from the mansion to welcome the U. S. marine band.

NEW RECOVERY TO BE DURABLE

That's Prediction of Business Authority, Tells Retailers Uptrend Moving Steadily.

see to what extent we are still suffering from those things which brought on the recession or depression."

"Labor relations are still uncertain," he pointed out. "The CIO and A. F. of L. are still fighting, and that tends to unsettle conditions. But it is now developing into a personal fight between John L. Lewis and William Green instead of a fight over principles. I have predicted and still predict that it will be settled within the next few months.

"There is a great disparity between the prices of farm goods and manufactured goods which means that the farmer has less purchasing power but the gap is closing.

"The railroad problem must be solved before the durable goods industry can get help and finally there are some distrust in the present administration at Washington."

Beckman said the political power was moving from the White House to Capitol Hill and gave it as an indication of the sign of the times.

"The next congress will be more conservative," he added. "There will be more of an attempt to digest laws passed to date than pass new ones—more emphasis will be placed on recovery which should augur well for business."

Discusses Credit Trend.

Before analyzing "The Business Outlook," Prof. Beckman discussed "Trends and Problems in Retailing" in which he cited the first trend as credit.

"Ninety-five per cent of all business is conducted on some means of credit," he said. "Half the 1,600,000 retail establishments in the nation extend some form of credit. Business would be unconceivable without it. Credit is the life blood of business. Credit if used properly can be a blessing to both the consumer and the retailer."

Stressing the fact that all retailing depends on consumers, he asserted that the consumer movement which was inaugurated four or five years ago is here to stay.

"It is a movement of both protest and curiosity," he explained. "It is a protest against untruthful advertising. It is a movement of curiosity in that the consumer wants to know what he or she is buying.

"Retailers must study consumers as they never did before—they must heed the consumer's every call if they are to succeed in the future."

Following Prof. Beckman's talk,

An Election That May Influence U. S. In 1940

New York Contest for Governor to Have Notable Effect.

(Editor's Note: While the results in many of the Nov. 8 election battles will be chiefly of local interest, personalities or issues give some campaigns national significance. This is the first of 10 articles outlining the situation in those states that are being closely watched by national political leaders.)

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The No. 1 political battle of the year is the New York governorship contest — racket-busting, 36-year-old Thomas E. Dewey versus 60-year-old Herbert H. Lehman, former banker, now serving his third term as governor.

It gets top ranking among all 1938 election struggles because:

1. Republican triumph in the state with the biggest electoral vote would be the greatest spur to G.O.P. hopes of winning the presidency in 1940.

2. The election of District Attorney Dewey, whose activities as a prosecutor have attracted national notice, would make him an outstanding Republican presidential possibility.

3. Conversely, a Lehman victory would strengthen prospects of New York remaining in the Democratic column in 1940 and of the Democrats retaining control of the national administration.

From a party standpoint, New York is ostensibly the richest single prize in the November elections because its electoral vote of 47 makes it the capstone in any national political structure.

GOV. HERBERT N. LEHMAN
Seeks Fourth Term

THOMAS E. DEWEY
Best Chance for G. O. P. Since '20

Its Vote Makes Presidents.

In the 20 quadrennial Republican-Democratic contests since 1856, only two presidents—Hayes in 1876 and Wilson in 1916—have been elected without the support of New York state.

Another potentially "significant" candidacy is that of Representative Bruce Barton seeking a second term in congress. Barton, writer and "business man in politics," is rated a possible Republican presidential nominee.

New York Republicans, with Dewey slashing at Tammany, have made the fight on graft and crime a campaign issue. Democrats counter that Lehman, who picked Dewey in 1935 to prosecute racketeering in New York City, has an excellent law enforcement record as well as a demonstrated general capacity for the governorship.

'The Strongest in Years.'

Republicans bank on Dewey's popularity giving them "the best chance to win since 1920" when they last captured the governorship. Democrats' boast that in drafting Lehman to run with Senator Robert Wagner, veteran labor legislator, and Representative James Mead, seeking the other seat in the United States senate, they have the strongest ticket in years.

Queerest development is the race for re-election to congress of John O'Connor, veteran Tammanyite, as a Republican nominee against the New Deal-supported James Fay. O'Connor, on the Roosevelt "purge" list, was nosed out by Bay in the Democratic primaries.

Tomorrow: Pennsylvania.

Goes To Jail—Convicted on a charge of disorderly conduct when arraigned in municipal court today, Steve Patrick, whose address was not given, was fined $5 and costs. Unable to pay he was committed to jail. Patrick was arrested Saturday on a warrant signed by Charles Filik, 230 Lida street, who testified that Patrick had threatened him.

Driver Fined—Pleading guilty in municipal court today to a charge of failing to stop at a stop sign, B. H. McClure, R. D. 4, Mansfield was fined $5 and costs. McClure was arrested at the intersection of route 96 and Bowman street road yesterday by State Highway Patrolman C. B. Tieben.

ENGLISH BAFFLES STUDENTS

BERKELEY, Cal.—(U.P.)—University of California professors are wondering if English is ceasing to be used in the United States. Out of 2,897 prospective students who took the required English test for entering the university, 1,714 failed. Percentage of those who passed was 62.8, or 3 per cent less than last year.

"Dusty" Miller, widely known Ohio editor and humorist who has appeared in Mansfield on a number of occasions in recent years, spoke.

C. M. Crafton, president of the Retail Merchants association, presided at the dinner and meeting which was attended by 125 members and guests.

During the business session, two members of the board of directors of the association were re-elected and one new director was chosen. Renamed to the board were Crafton and J. A. Herbert, new business manager of the Ohio Public Service company. The new member of the board is L. J. Washburn, manager of the Mansfield Sears & Roebuck company store who succeeds Carl Russell, co-proprietor of the Golden-Russell store who was not a candidate.

SAWYER HITS AT FOE'S 'SILENCE'

Bricker Can't Mention Housecleaning With 'Deal' on, Candidate Charges.

In other speeches in northeastern Ohio, the Democratic candidate read what he termed affidavits from liquor department inspectors as purported evidence of a "deal." These employes, he said, contended they were instructed to support Bricker.

Bricker has denied Sawyer's charge. Governor Davey has remained silent in keeping with his announced intention to avoid entanglement in the gubernatorial contest.

Sawyer also predicted that, if elected, he would increase the liquor department's earnings through greater efficiency. This added income, he said, would go toward old age pensions.

He promised co-operation with the federal government to settle Ohio's current old age pension difficulties with the social security board.

WAGE LAW PLEA BY ROOSEVELT BUOYS LEADERS

Administrators Hopeful That Appeal Will Tend to Change Views of Protesters.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Wage-hour administrators hoped today that President Roosevelt's personal appeal for cooperation would bring about an effort in low wage industries to make the new fair labor standards law work.

Beginning the third day under the new law, wage-hour officials were optimistic. They hoped that employers who have shut down their factories in protest against the law's minimum wage and maximum hour provisions would attempt to comply rather than throw thousands out of work on the eve of a national election.

They were encouraged by the fact that no court action against the law has yet been taken. They expected, however, that a court test would be made in the near future and that it would reach the supreme court quickly.

The president's request for cooperation was made as Wage-Hour Administrator Elmer F. Andrews reported that most employers had been "just fine" in meeting problems imposed by the law.

For Pecan Shellers.

Mr. Roosevelt directed his remarks particularly at the pecan shelling industry, which closed down Monday rather than boost wages of its more than 30,000 employes for an estimated eight to 15 cents an hour up to the 25-cent minima. He observed that the nation was not going to stop growing, picking and selling pecans, and that therefore it was the practical thing for employers in the industry to sit down with government officials and try to make the law work.

He said that it was unfortunate that the question had arisen just two weeks before the election because, judging by any important social legislation put on the statute books in the past, some persons are immediately affected, but it is by no means certain that they are permanently adversely affected.

In other words, he observed, a national law like the wage hours statute works itself out.

It would be an exceedingly good thing, he continued, if even those whom he described as the most reactionary newspaper owners and politicians were to try, as a matter of patriotic duty, to make the law work. He added that the Lord knows that the administration received no help from that type of American in getting the act passed.

He described this group of people as the kind which says they are in favor of decent wages, but say they don't like your proposal and method of reaching this objective. Then, Mr. Roosevelt continued, you offer another method and they say that's terrible, so you offer another which they reject as awful.

Meanwhile, he said, they continue to write or say that they favor good wages and finally you ask them: What would you suggest? Then, Mr. Roosevelt said, they tell you that it is not their business.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties.

BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep.

So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders.

You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

55 FATHERS AT SCHOOL EVENT

John Simpson Has "Dad's Night;" Plan For Benefit.

Fifty-five fathers of students at John Simpson Junior high school attended a "Dads' Night" program at the school last night.

During a short business meeting the group voted to sponsor a benefit sometime within the next two months for the school. The men played volleyball and cards, and refreshments were served.

This was the first meeting of fathers of the school this year. Charles A. McClure was chairman of the evening program.

HUSBAND LEFT THOMAS ESTATE

Hospital Founder's Will Gives Kin Life Interest; Cousin, Friend Also Named.

Mrs. Eleanor Thomas Jones, founder and manager of the Eleanor Thomas sanitarium, who died last Thursday, bequeathed her husband, Thomas A. Jones, a life interest in most of her estate, according to her will which had been filed today in probate court.

The will provides for the distribution of personal property, including clothing and jewelry, to a cousin, Margaret Ann Williams, South Wales, British Isles.

A grandfather's clock and an arm chair from South Wales were left to Rev. S. W. Griffiths, of the First Presbyterian church, Cleveland, a friend of Mrs. Jones for many years.

The will, drawn at Cleveland in September, 1936, nominated Rev. Griffiths and Atty. John G. Roberts of Cleveland as executors to serve without bond.

No estimate of the value of the estate was filed with the will and application for administration.

Mrs. Jones' body has been placed in a mausoleum in Mansfield cemetery temporarily. Her will asked that it be returned to South Wales, her birthplace, for burial.

45 MORE TAKE STATE EXAMS

Second Group Seeking Jobs in Unemployment Division Vie Here in Tests.

The second group of 45 persons vying for the 5,000 positions in the new state unemployment commission took the examination at the American Legion home today.

The tests conducted today by C. S. Kennedy, examiner for the state civil service commission, were for accountants and bookkeeping machine operators.

The examinations here are being held simultaneously with those in 14 other Ohio cities to select personnel to maintain the 58 district offices which will be set up to handle the unemployment insurance claims when the law becomes operative Jan. 1, 1939.

Positions to be filled between Nov. 1 and July 1, 1939, range from clerical jobs paying $70 a month to executive posts with a salary of $300 a month.

8 From Vicinity Named to O.S.U. Student Chorus

Miss Jean Seybold, 514 South Main street, is one of eight Ohio State university students from Richland and nearby counties named to the university chorus, according to dispatches from the school.

Others chosen from this area are Ralph Workman, Loudonville; Hubert Porter, Marengo; Betty Brooks and Lowell Douce, Martel; Fannie Pickens, Mt. Gilead; Elizabeth Smith, Mt. Vernon, and Marjorie Wareham, Shelby.

Dr. H. L. Knox of Mansfield, and Hester Robinson, Pavonia, will represent Richland county at the biennial all-Ohio alumni conference to be held at the university Nov. 5, the day of the Ohio State-Purdue football game.

In the morning the alumni delegates will hear talks by university officials on campus affairs. Representatives from nearby counties who have been invited to attend are Dr. Ray Batchelder and Dr. Robert Mehl, Ashland, Ashland county; W. J. Schwenk, Bucyrus, and Moulton Dewalt, Crestline, Crawford county; Chester DeWitt and Clarence Ittner, Millersburg, Holmes county; Charles Zelowitz and Ruth Headington, Mt. Vernon, Knox county; J. TWO HELD FOR U. S. GRAND JURY

Loudonville, Butler Men Face Counterfeiting Charges in Cleveland.

Howard Bowman, 28, of Loudonville, and Walter Ruth, 31, of near Butler, both farm hands, awaited the federal grand jury action in Cleveland today on counterfeiting charges.

The men pleaded guilty to the charges when arraigned before U. S. Commissioner E. D. Nicola. Bowman's bond was fixed at $2,000 and Ruth's at $1,000.

Federal secret service agents who arrested the pair Monday said they held as evidence 500 counterfeit nickels, quarters and half dollars and plaster of paris molds confiscated at the Bowman home in Loudonville.

The agents said they were told that the fake coins had been played in slot machines and music boxes as an experiment.

The federal men said that Bowman's statement was to the effect that he had had the plant in operation only two or three weeks. However Mansfield police were of the opinion that the numerous spurious coins which have been found in the city in recent months may have been produced at the plant.

IN THIRD DAY

Testimony Resumed in NLRB Hearing at Galion.

GALION—The National Labor Relations board hearing of charges of unfair labor practices filed by the International Association of Machinists, Local 1151, through A. G. Skundor, grand lodge representative, against the North Electric Manufacturing company of Galion, went into its third day today.

The company is charged with having discharged and refused to reinstate Charles Pfleiderer because of his union activity and affiliation.

Skundor was on the witness stand the entire day Tuesday.

Skundor claimed that employes told him that they were being threatened by foremen that they would be discharged by the company if the joined the union.

LUM, ABNER SUED

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Lum and Abner's rural wit on the radio has earned them upwards of $500,000, Bill Hay estimated today in suing the pair for an accounting and 10 per cent of their income.

Hay asserted he obtained a five year contract for Lum and Abner in 1931, but instead of his promised 10 per cent commission, they paid him only $191.

CHINESE GIRL, 4, TODDLES AWAY AS JAP TROOPS ENTER HANKOW

(By Associated Press)

HANKOW — A four-year-old Chinese girl stood on the Hankow bund today and welcomed the first Japanese advance unit to reach the international area of this fallen Chinese industrial center.

Arriving in two armed motorboats, the Japanese detachment landed near the smoldering Japanese consulate only a few minutes after a group of Chinese soldiers and stragglers had dodged down a side street.

Japanese officers searched the girl and then allowed her to toddle away. A few minutes later British officers appeared. Then Father Jacquinot, organizer of a safety zone for refugees, informed the Japanese of the boundaries of the zone.

The Japanese officers announced that gunboats would arrive with troops later today to begin occupation of the city whose capture marked culmination of a campaign which gave the invaders an area of China one-fourth as large as the United States, with a population equal to that of the Soviet Union.

The detachment then returned downstream, presumably to join the Japanese Yangtze river gunboat concentration.

Fires which retreating Chinese started yesterday continued to blaze in the Chinese quarters and the former Japanese concession. Damage under the Chinese policy to leave only "scorched earth" for the invaders to conquer was most severe in the Japanese area.

The consulate was blown up, houses were burned and looted, and the Japanese navy headquarters was destroyed.

Although small remnants of the Chinese army of 1,000,000 which had attempted to stall the Japanese drive still remained in or near Hankow, most of the force had moved on to the south and west.

The fall of Hankow brought to fulfillment the main Japanese objective in the nearly 16 months of warfare.

BROTHER DIES

Relative of R. S. Gibson, Bank Official, Stricken.

Robert S. Gibson, cashier of the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank, has received word of the death of his brother, Joseph B. Gibson, at his home in Arroyo Grande, Cal. He was about 80 years old.

Other relatives in Mansfield are three sisters, Mrs. R. E. Hutchison, Mrs. Harriet Mansfield, and Mrs. J. F. Hartman. Mr. Gibson is also survived by his wife and five children, all in California; three other brothers and a sister. They are J. A. Gibson, Washington, D. C.; D. H. Gibson, New York City; John C. Gibson, Chicago, and Mrs. Emily C. MacGeagh of London, Eng.

Mr. Gibson, who spent a short time in Mansfield after coming to America from Ireland in 1878, was born in Coagh, Tryone county, Ireland. He had been in the banking business most of his business life, having been president of the Santa Maria, Cal., bank before his retirement a number of years ago.

He will be buried in California. Funeral services will be held at Arroyo Grande tomorrow afternoon.

QUITTING NOW, GRALL DECLARES

Sheriff Changes Resignation Date; Still In Jail.

ELYRIA—(INS)—Sheriff William F. Grall, held in county jail in lieu of $20,000 bond changed the effective date of his resignation from Nov. 1 to today.

Effect of the action was to restore him to the status of private citizen, instead of an official, and Common Pleas Judge Guy B. Findley promptly reduced his bond to $10,000. Grall said he expected to be able to post bond of that amount.

Grall is awaiting trial on a charge of accepting a $30 bribe from the operator of an alleged house of ill repute.

HALLOWEEN PARADERS COMPETE IN 6 CLASSIFICATIONS MONDAY

Classification for the Halloween parade Monday night when spooks, "hants" and other strange characters will hold a big round-up in the downtown section were announced today by B. L. Hagerman, general chairman for the Petroleum Retailers association, which is sponsoring the celebration this year.

There will be six classifications with $60 in cash prizes to be awarded. Judges, who will review the parade from a stand on the south side of Central park, will be Frank May, chairman, Mayor Claude M. Hunter, Service-Safety Director Earl Nist, R. D. Lindsay, Paul W. Williams, Ralph Hughes, Otho McCormick, V. H. Lodde and Jane Williams.

Classifications and prizes include $5 each to best dressed man and woman; $5 each to most comically dressed man and woman; $15 first prize, and $5 second prize for the best decorated float; $10 to the driver of the best decorated tank truck; $5 to the driver of the best decorated auto; $2 to the best decorated bicycle with the most comically dressed rider, and three prizes of $1 each for the next best in this group.

A committee of three in charge of each one of the three dance halls that will be taken over by the Petroleum association for public dances. The Grosvenor on South Walnut street will be in charge of Earl Herrick, Howard Guisinger and D. A. Cowan; Delano hall, Bowman street, Earl Smith, Earl Shea and Thomas Butts, and Moose hall, Eugene Linham, George Grega and C. W. Warner.

Persons who take part in the parade must register with the committee and receive their classification number. These may be obtained from Linham at the Texaco station, Fourth and Adams; Thomas Butts, at the Puroil station, Fourth and Rowland, or B. L. Hagerman, 202-203 Bird building. No numbers will be given out after 7 p. m. Monday. The parade forms at 7:30 at the corner of Park avenue west and Mulberry.

FINDS PENNSY DEMS SOUGHT FUNDS OF WPA

Senate Investigators Learn Letters Asking Funds Sent Relief Workers.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Having found the WPA in Pennsylvania shot through with political campaigning by Democratic leaders, the senate campaign expenditures committee today turned its spotlights on a "Senator Joseph F. Guffey" letter appealing to federal and state employes for contributions for the Democratic candidates in the Keystone state.

Through Senator Guffey, Gov. George H. Earle and the Democratic state chairman have flatly denied any connection with the letter that was sent out from the party's state headquarters in August, committee agents were to report their findings to the senatorial group.

Poring over the "Guffey case" in secret session were Senators Morris Sheppard of Texas, and David F. Walsh of Massachusetts, Democrats; and Wallace H. White, jr., Republican, of Maine.

File Other Charges.

The committee also had before it for disposition reports from its investigators on charges of alleged irregularities in New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana, Tennessee, Wisconsin, Illinois and California. Most of the charges accused the WPA of "playing politics" in these states.

The committee found that thousands of WPA workers in Pennsylvania had been dunned by Democratic campaigners for contributions to the party's election coffers from their work-relief checks.

Evidence that Democratic organizers had sold thousands of tickets to WPA workers for "political meetings;" that WPA employers who wore Republican campaign buttons were transferred to projects far from their homes and that the government's payroll lists were turned over to Democratic politicians, was found by committee investigators in combing Pennsylvania.

These disclosures by the committee came in sharp contrast with a statement by Deputy WPA Administrator Aubrey Williams that WPA investigators found no evidence to support charges carried in the newspapers—charges filed with the committee.

GIVEN PLAQUE

Ashbrook Honored by Legion Posts at Johnstown.

Congressman William A. Ashbrook of the 17th district laid down arms in his political battle last night long enough to learn that a "prophet is not without honor in his own land," contrary to opinion.

Representatives of 13 American Legion posts and state and district officers held a meeting at Johnstown last night and after the installation of post officers, presented a bronze plaque to the veteran congressman. On it was inscribed: "Presented by the members of the Johnstown post, 254, American Legion, to Congressman William A. Ashbrook. In appreciation of his untiring efforts in behalf of all war veterans and their dependents."

Ashbrook is also an honorary member of the United Spanish War Veterans and Veterans of Foreign Wars. The Newark veterans auxiliaries recently planted a tree in the public park there and dedicated it to Ashbrook in appreciation of his services to the veterans.

CLOUDY, COLDER

Weatherman Says Overcast Skies To Bring Drop In Temperature.

Colder weather will return to the Mansfield area tonight and it will be still colder Thursday, the weatherman predicted today.

Overcast skies will accompany the cold tomorrow, the forecast said.

The cold of the past three days released its grasp on the county area today and a warm sun sent the mercury up to 66 degrees at noon. The low this morning was 41.

ASKED TO QUIT

Longview Hospital Head Gets Suspension From Allman.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Dr. E. A. Baber, superintendent of the Longview state hospital at Cincinnati, was suspended today and asked to resign by Mrs. Margaret Allman, state welfare director.

Mrs. Allman said that the suspension was made "because recent events disclosed certain irregularities at the institution."

The director declined to amplify her statement, but said that if Dr. Baber did not resign within 30 days she would file removal charges with the state civil service commission.

Mrs. Allman also abolished the $600-a-year job of Mrs. Baber as matron of the hospital.

Dr. N. W. Kiser, assistant superintendent of the Toledo state hospital, was named temporary superintendent of Longview.

WORK ON SHOP ADDITION TO BE STARTED SOON

Actual Construction to Get Under Way at Senior High This Week.

Actual work on Mansfield's million-dollar school building program will get under way Thursday or Friday, school officials announced today.

Contract for construction of a $25,000 shop addition at Senior high school, first step in the program, was tentatively approved yesterday by PWA officials at Columbus, and John W. Ness, Mansfield contractor who was awarded the contract, was ready today to move his equipment to the high school.

Supt. W. L. Miller of Mansfield schools said final approval of the contract and building plans is expected late this week.

Work on Junior High Plans.

While construction of the high school shop addition is in progress, plans for the two new junior high schools, the major part of the building program, will be completed, school board members said. The buildings will cost $450,000 each. One will replace the present John Simpson Junior high school and the other will be erected at Cline avenue and Wood street.

The high school shop addition will be a one-story structure and will be built directly behind the Senior high school. Following completion of the building, probably in January.

WOODLAND ASKS IMPROVEMENTS IN WATER, ROAD

Increased Pressure, Repair of Cook Road Sought in Residents' Petitions.

City council had before it today requests from property owners in two sections of Woodland seeking increased water pressure and the improvement of Cook road.

A petition signed by 21 property owners on Cook road, filed with Council Clerk William J. Beer, jr., asks for the permanent improvement of the roadway from Lexington avenue to Woodland road.

Another petition signed by 52 property owners on Woodhill, Forest hill, Bigelow and Woodland roads, requests the construction of a new water main on Woodland road to serve their properties with higher pressure.

Say Pressure Inadequate.

The signers state they have "inadequate water service for household purposes and for protection in the event of fire," and ask that residents in the area be given service on an "equal basis" with other sections of the city

They add that the construction of the new water tower which is being built at the Woodland servoir will provide increased pressure if a larger main is installed.

The petition for the improvement of Cook road asks for immediate action on the request, pointing out that last winter the road was impassable.

Residents on the street seek an 18 to 20 foot improvement at a "cost as low as possible" by employing WPA labor They ask for a 10 inch base of slag which they said can be purchased in Mansfield at the cost of 10 cents a cubic yard.

City engineers have estimated that approximately 1,100 cubic yards of the material would be necessary to meet the specifications as set forth in the petition.

ORDERS SHIFT

Hopkins Says WPA Workers to Be Given Time Off to Vote.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Works Progress Adminstrator Hopkins has ordered work schedules rearranged wherever necessary to permit relief workers to vote in the Nov 8 election.

The order was contained in copies of regulations reaffirming freedom for WPA workers to vote as they pleased sent to state administrators for posting at all projects

"No supervisor or administrative person may attempt to influence the votes of any worker or solicit contributions for campaign funds from the people who work under him," the order said. "Any one who uses his position with the Works Progress administration in that way to influence the votes of others by threat or intimidation will be dismissed."

"Employes shall not be paid for time allowed during which to vote," Hopkins stated.

"Where's Grandma?" a three-act comedy, will be presented by the junior class of Union high school. Weller township, Nov. 5.

Students cast in the play are Jane Crall. Wilma Smith, Galen Cocanour, Margaret King, George Latimer, Winona Clingan, Sara Simpson, Helen Kent and Dean Ferrell.

Members of New York dairy herd improvement associations replace one-fifth of their herds each year because of losses from disease, low-producing ability, and other causes which lower milk production.

Ford, Son Unveil New Car

Both Henry Ford and his son Edsel were on hand in Detroit to explain features of the new Ford product, the Mercury, a half-sister to the Lincoln Zephyr, to newspapermen gathered to view the new Ford cars. It is believed that the Mercury will retail for less than $1,000, but the price will not be disclosed until Nov. 3. The Mercury will fill the price gap in the Ford line between the Ford de luxe and the Zephyr. The Mercury is longer and wider than the de luxe Ford and everything about it is bigger.

War Won't Solve Dictator Problem, Prexy Contends

Whether democracy and fascism can continue to exist as principles and practices of government formed the basis of a talk on "Democracy given at Tuesday's Rotary club meeting by Dr. Clarence E. Josephson, president of Heidelberg college, Tiffin.

Expressing the view that democratic nations of the world, supported by Russia, might be expected to defeat the dictator nations in a war, Dr. Josephson argued against war as a solution of the problem and offered suggestions looking toward eventual overthrow of dictatorships and spread of democracy.

These included trade agreements between nations; stabilization of monetary policies; co-operation between democracies and refusal to finance fascist military programs; protection of minority groups in their rights of free speech and free press, difficult as this may sometimes appear.

Continued thought and study of methods for improving the democratic system of government, with constant spread of its benefits to mere people, was urged by the speaker, who also stressed the importance of extending education to those who do not yet understand the meaning and intent of democracy.

Rev. Paul Hollingshead was chairman of the meeting, at which R D. Iden, club president, presided.

HOMECOMING AT MADISON NOV. 4

School to Mark Annual Event With Dance After Football Game.

Homecoming day at Madison high school will be celebrated with a dance Friday evening, Nov. 4, school officials announced today.

The dance is being sponsored by the Girls' Athletic and "M" associations, and will be staged in the gymnasium following the Madison-Loudonville football game scheduled for that night.

Arrangements for the dance are in charge of a committee of students from both organizations, with Al Fendrick, school athletic director, as chairman.

FINDS 16 SCHOOL BUSES OBSOLETE

State Patrol Says Vehicles Now in Use in This County Should Be Replaced.

Sixteen school buses now in use in Richland county are outmoded and should be replaced by next September, Corporal L. E. Ruck of the Mansfield station of the state highway patrol announced today following annual inspection of the buses by patrolmen.

Only 15 of the 71 buses inspected received a grade A rating, while 40 were rated in the grade B class, or in need of minor repairs or equipment additions The other 16 were in the C class.

All of the county's buses are in condition to operate the rest of this school term, provided the recommended improvements are made, Corp. Ruck said. The 16 buses in the grade C class have been in use eight years or more.

The buses were inspected by patrolmen in Mansfield, Shelby, and Bellville.

Forty-six buses in Morrow county were inspected by the same patrolmen, who gave 15 of the vehicles a grade A rating, 33 grade B, and only one grade C.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1938.

Then again, there may have been some who thought Hitler meant it when he said he would ask for no more.

An explorer tells of a South Sea island that has had 50 years of unbroken prosperity—but he doesn't mention the hours and wages.

Now comes mention of the convict who sawed his way to freedom—without even suspecting that the bars were made of "toolproof" steel.

RICHLAND county voters at the election on Tuesday, November 8, will be asked to approve a one-half mill tax levy to provide money to carry on the fight against tuberculosis in this county.

Thus far Richland county has not kept step with progress in caring for tubercular cases, especially in providing facilities within the county for handling the disease in its early stages, and so preventing development to more advanced and probably fatal conditions.

A number of other Ohio counties have been fortunate in securing tuberculosis sanitariums through individual benefactions by wealthy citizens but Richland county has not yet been placed in this position and care of tubercular patients here must be through public funds provided by taxation.

Recent clinical work done by the Richland County Anti-Tuberculosis society, by means of funds secured through sale of Christmas Health Seals, has aided in disclosure of many cases in early stages, and will be of eventual benefit in further reducing the death toll of this disease.

But there must be money available to meet costs of treatment and hospitalization when necessary.

This is the money that is sought through the one-half mill tax levy—amounting to 50 cents on each $1,000 of tax valuation—and the spread of cost will thus be so small as to work no hardship on anyone.

When health and human lives are in the balance the item of money cost is a small matter—as you will realize when illness or accident invades your own family circle.

Here is an occasion in which voters of Richland county, as one large family, have opportunity to join in helping to restore health to many sufferers from tuberculosis, and at the same time reduce the danger to themselves and their own families at little cost—no more than anyone would be willing to contribute to a friend or neighbor in need.

To Continue At Mohican Park.

DECISION to continue the work of the CCC at Mohican State park will be accorded very general approval in this part of the state.

The thousands from Mansfield and vicinity who have found opportunity to visit this state park recognize that a valuable and lasting public work is being performed in Mohican park, and that this work is still far from completion.

It also appears to be among the projects for which the plans and methods of the Civilian Conservation Corps are especially applicable.

Effectiveness of expression of public interest in matters of this kind is evidenced in the change of plan to remove the CCC unit from Mohican park at this time.

Little Girl Burned to Death.

THE sorrowful story of the nine-year-old Galion school girl who died as a result of burns sustained when her dress caught on fire from an open-flame gas burner in a school room, can do little more than provide another example of the requirement for constant vigilance in avoiding conditions which present such hazards to life and safety.

It is especially important in schools, and in other gathering places of children, that an extreme of caution be exercised at all times in guarding against possibilities of accident, and no precautions should be regarded as too great to prevent injury or death of a child or adult.

Here is a case in which not only a little girl suffered a horrible death but a family circle was grievously broken by a tragedy, the memory of which will carry through the lives of the bereft parents, brothers and sister.

Mexico To Pay.

IT IS reassuring to learn from Mexico City that the problem of land seizure is near settlement. The Mexican government is said to have agreed on the principle of annual payments over a given period. All that remains is to decide the amount.

For the present, the principle is more important than the principal. The latter is estimated at $10,000,000, covering farm lands taken from United States citizens at various times and places since 1927. If Mexico definitely promises that there shall be no confiscations in the future, it will be easy enough to settle for past seizures.

After that will come the real tug of war, over the question of payment for oil properties expropriated by the Mexican government and valued variously from $100,000,000 to $500,000,000.

The sooner all such matters for dispute are ironed out, the better. We must live in peaceful co-operation with Mexico, not only for the sake of our two countries but for the maintenance of justice and friendly co-operation throughout the whole hemisphere. Because of conditions in Europe and Asia, this is more important now than it ever was before.

Nuts In Australia.

NEWS comes that "a wave of crazy contests" is sweeping Australia. Seemingly normal people engage in such sports as pushing peanuts with their noses. Wheelbarrow marathons are common. This stunt involves a wheelbarrow and two men, one to ride and one to push.

During the World war it was discovered that the Australians were more like the Americans than any other members of the British Empire, and it seems to be proved by these aberrations. They are not new, either. In 1854 an Australian won fame of a sort by picking up thirty eggs with his mouth without touching the ground with his knees and presumably without breaking any of the eggs.

A few years earlier another Australian bet real money that he could pick 100 cobs of corn a yard apart in fifty-five minutes. He seems to have done it, too.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Army officers can't speak out on controversial subjects while they wear the army pants but until Secretary of War Woodring clamped down on Gen. George Van Horn Moseley, they had thought they regained freedom of speech when they retired.

The net result is that army officers (ever so quietly) and the semi-official journals of the military services (ever so loudly) have loosed an anguished cry against the sort of suppression they thought Woodring had attempted.

The thing started when Moseley on the day he recently retired from the army, issued a public statement boiling over with criticism of certain administration policies.

* * *

The General Fires.

"NOT since the days of the secession has the future of America hung by so narrow a thread," he said. He criticised Aubrey Williams of the National Youth Administration for predicting that U. S. contributions to relief were here to stay. "Increased paternalism will inevitably become dictatorship," said Moseley. He called some projects "visionary" and said "others appear to cloak a sinister ulterior motive behind a humanitarian front."

In truth there were sharp words and the general run of officers were a bit surprised at the heat, but not half so surprised as when Woodring issued a brief but biting statement saying Moseley's remarks were evidence of "pique" at his failure of selection for Chief of Staff, a job that went to Gen. Malin Craig. Altogether, said Woodring, it was a "flagrantly disloyal statement."

* * *

Woodring 'Shocked' Them.

IT WAS on that last point that the soldier services balked. The Army and Navy Register and Navy Journal, semi-official publications, carried editorials expressing "shock at the strong words of Secretary Woodring."

Moseley himself retorted that he had not been eligible for the job of chief of staff. He said he had been too closely associated in an official capacity with the Hoover administration for that, and further, that he hadn't enough time to serve in the army before retirement to justify his appointment.

"Army officers," said the Register, "have been brought up to believe that 'loyalty' works both ways; that a man who expects loyalty from subordinates must display loyalty toward them."

The Journal said the general had "performed a public service in suggesting that we forget foreign affairs and tend to our own while we settle our own problems."

* * *

Some Precedents Cited.

AS AN immediate precedent, the Journal suggested that General Martin, just defeated for re-election as governor of Oregon, "has never hesitated to criticise policies he believed harmful."

Other officers have spoken out after retirement, notably General Smedley D. Butler of the Marines, General Johnson Hagood, the late Admiral Sims, and General William Mitchell. The latter spoke out before hand, too, and left the service as a result.

In the main they aimed their shots at military conditions, but the officers felt that a man retired from the army was entitled to cut loose at will and their joy was no end great when a check—sample of editorial opinion showed it strong in support of their position.

JUST A HAPPY FAMILY

The Human Side of the News

—By EDWIN C HILL

HAVING occasion to call on a Wall Street trader the other day, I found him busy with some financial charts in which the signs of the zodiac were mixed in with the usual zig-zags. He had several astrological magazines which, it appears, are going in heavily for market forecasting these days. There were studies of "lunation," for the month of October, and apparently great concern about Uranus tossing a "trine" around rather menacingly. A reading of August 15 indicated some goings on between Mars and Venus which seemed disquieting, and might cause a bad war scare. Steel, wheat and cotton horoscopes were on the up-and-up and, altogether, things didn't look so bad.

The trader, shrewd operator, said he had taken up astrology a few years ago after he had consulted a seeress, and she had tipped him to some good bets on the market. I recalled a friend of mine, who, soon after the 1929 crash, had taken a turn back through two or three depression years and made a comparison of prophecies by market experts and astrologers, on the basis of later fulfillment. The astrologers won.

But, so far as I could learn, none of the astrologers ever made a dime playing his own charts. That seems to me to be pretty much the answer to this star-gazing business. Beyond all doubt, any man who could find the tiniest pin-prick of vision through the veil of the future could own and operate the world. But, in all the records of the rich and great we seem to find no famous astrologers.

I find there are many Wall Street operators who consult astrologists, but they tell me that most of them are women. And there is a considerably larger proportion of women in the market today than in the pre-depression years. One can get seeming verification for this by looking in on the branch offices of brokerage farms in the big hotels. There is almost always a pack of beautifully gowned women in these customers' rooms, and I am told that many of them are steady market players.

"Wealthy widows and alimony queens," a hotel manager explained to me. "Some of them study the market closely and are shrewd players."

I asked the manager whether the women speculators relied on astrology.

"Yes," he said, "we see them with charts and magazines and hear a lot of talk about planetary aspects and lucky days and lucky numbers. I know they consult astrologists a great deal."

* * *

THAT interested me in its bearing on the supposedly authentic estimate that women now own about 70 per cent of the wealth of the country. Are matters of "lunation" and "trines" going to be preponderant in our national economic destiny?

Probably not. I have been consulting Boyd's Financial Table for a line on this 70 per cent estimate. On a superficial showing, it would appear that the estimate is exaggerated. There are in the entire nation 12,461 women worth $1,000,000 or more. Of these, 3,682 are in New York. There are 25,206 women worth over $500,000 and 1,538,292 worth from $5,000 to $50,000. A check on these and the intervening groups will show that the total is far less than 70 per cent of the roughly estimated total wealth of $300,000,000,000 for the United States.

There are several reasons for challenging the above estimate of women's wealth. In times of depression, much masculine money hunts shelter in its wife's name. There are vast holdings in trust for women but governed in such a way that they are kept in the general economic bloodstream and not subject to phases of the moon or any conjunction of Venus and Jupiter.

And considering the multitudes of women who administer legacies sensibly, maintain their homes and educate their children, it is quite probable that the market players in the customers' rooms are just a small handful compared with the whole.

Timely Editorial

Sounds Strange.

A lot of 1937 corn is "sealed" in Iowa. Farmers didn't market it but borrowed against it from the government at about 50 cents a bushel, sealing it in their cribs. Now there's the 1938 crop, a larger one. They can seal that up, borrowing at about 60 cents.

Curious things are resulting. Borrowing on new corn at 60 cents, then paying off the 50 cent loans and using 1937 corn for feed, offers a profit. A larger chance appears to lie in defaulting the 1937 loans and letting the government take that corn at 50 cents (plus costs)—borrowing all they can get on the new crop at 60 cents—and using feed corn bought at local elevators at the present cash price, around 35 cents.

Accounts from the great corn state of Iowa say the Republicans expect a Republican victory in the Nov. 8 elections, because the Iowa farmers are suspicious of a government as silly as all that. "Silly" is the word! For their part, the Democrats make it a chief bid for votes that the New Deal is lending at 60 cents on 35-cent corn, thus subsidizing Iowa's chief crop.—Detroit News.

Explanation of Amendment For Judicial Selection

Editor News-Journal:

The Ohio State Bar association has sponsored an amendment to the constitution of Ohio providing for a method for the selection of appellate and supreme court judges for two reasons:

First: To take the judiciary out of politics.

Second: To secure better and more able lawyers on the bench.

At present when there is a vacancy the governor fills the vacancy by appointment, thus pays a political debt. If the amendment carries this will all be changed.

The amendment that comes before the voters at the November election will remove the judiciary from politics and political activity.

The amendment provides for the election of a judicial council the members to serve for three years, without compensation, consisting of eight members, as follows:

There are 27 members of the appellate court, and these judges select one member of the council from their body.

There are 146 judges on the common pleas bench, and these judges select one member of the council from their body.

There are 88 probate judges in Ohio, and these judges select one member of the council from their body.

There are 58 municipal judges in Ohio, and these judges select one member of the council from their body.

These four with the chief justice of the supreme court, by virtue of his judicial position, together with three laymen lawyers (appointed by the governor,) will constitute the judicial council of eight.

Who, as well as lawyers, are as competent to determine the qualifications necessary to make a good judge?

Whenever a vacancy occurs, the governor notifies the judicial council, and then it becomes the duty of the judicial council to select not less than three nor more than five qualified persons from the district where the vacancy occurs, and to certify the names to the governor, and the governor must fill the vacancy from the names certified. The one appointed must be confirmed by the state senate.

The appointment is for life, subject to the following condition:

After the appointee has served six years under his appointment, his name must go on the ballot at the next general election for approval or disapproval.

If a number of voters equal to a majority of all those voting in such district at such general election on this question, shall vote in the negative, such judge shall retire from office at the end of thirty days, and such office shall be declared vacant. This is the safety valve of the amendment.

The judicial amendment does not apply to the common pleas, probate or municipal courts. In the lower courts the electors have a fairly general knowledge of the character, reputation, legal knowledge and judicial temperament of the candidates, and can intelligently cast their ballots. This is not true of the candidates of the appellate and supreme court.

There are many eminent lawyers in Ohio who would be willing to sacrifice a practice with a larger income than the salary they would receive and accept an appointment to either of the higher courts because of the honor connected therewith.

Our ablest lawyers will not accept a nomination to a judgeship because of the political machine that envelops them and to do the many political activities that are distasteful, which they are forced to do to succeed. As a result the judge becomes the politician on the bench, with his ear to the ground, from the time he is sworn in, planning for his second term.

These are the kind of men that should be on the bench.

The best of our judges are none too good. Some are weak brothers. We are entitled to the best that we can get. Vote for the amendment and give us an opportunity for improvement. Let those who want to play politics play their game in the executive and legislative departments of the government, but keep the judiciary clean.

W. H. GIFFORD.

Listen, World!

Beauty of Harvest Time.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THE GARDEN is a shaggy tangle now. Nothing orderly anymore—nothing unscarred. All the small, sharp prettiness of Spring gone—the fat tidiness of Summer.

Now you see, openly, the mark of all the days—rough wind and sun—and times when everything lay drowned in fog. Even the mark of lonely, waiting nights. It's all there now. Not covered up, or tied back, any more. And yet—its not like something finished. Rather like something that at last has come complete . . . like some fine face that's dared to walk with life.

I wonder why they think an Autumn garden's dead!

The leaves pile in a coppery litter on the walk, between the bricks, the weeds sprout undisturbed—gay, ragged tufts and tassles like those quirks of character that keep real folk from being commonplace. Last June it was smooth green—but now there's tarweed, thyme . . . a small, rough thistle with a scarlet bloom. bloom.

The Iris blades are shafts of tarnished gold, the brier stems seem wrought in burnished bronze with scarlet pods that shine like lacquered wood. The maple leaves tattered, crimson silk . . . The whole place drips with color . . . But each morning there's a film, like silver lace of cobwebs strung from bush to bush.

Few flowers left. A tattered bush of fawn chrysanthemums whose petals smell of cinnamon and clove. Michaelmas daisies in a sprawling mass—their cloud blossoms all afoam with bees. Brown pansies—with small faces like cross gnomes. And heather spreading like a smoky mist.

Not many blossoms, but berries everywhere—like gypsy tribes that come when tamer things are gone. This year was good for berries. Some are deep maroon—dark as blood drops on their glossy stems. And some—their tan leaves lined with grayish fur—are light, dull coral. A touch of frost will make them shine like flame . . . Against their round, pale leaves, snow berries gleam, in globes of waxy light.

Even the resting earth is different in the Autumn days—purple as eggplant—damply rich and still. And fragrant, too, with all the crumbled perfume of the year—pollen and petal aromatic gum, dissolves to dust by sun and wind and rain.

The light lies low and thick, a honey-colored glaze in which the garden floats, a blur of rose and jade.

The garden is a shaggy tangle now, yet somehow lovelier than any other time—richer with meaning. Each day the mystery deepens like a spell. Almost, one hears low laughter . . . catches faint, sweet calls . . . feels trailing fingers clutch as one goes by.

Old age, I think, should come to us like this. Not hated, dreaded, like an ugly face. But like a lovely ripening-rich release! There's so much more in life than bud and blossom—busy Summer, pretty Spring. The harvest time's the proudest time of all!

To show, at last, all that we've won from life . . . wearing our wrinkles like a croix de guerre. To cast aside all pretense and display the rich and varied tangle of the soul and flesh . . . the secret wildness which gives life its tang . . . the mirth that bursts like scattered weeds, from out drab bonds . . . the passion that we dared not show, unpruned. To be, at last, our own rich, glowing selves.

I wonder why we think an Autumn garden's dead.

I wonder why we shrink from age with dread.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Remembered Laughter.

That was the day your laughter sang
Along the path, you were
So gay, light-heartedly you walked
Alive to life astir.

Each bird song found an echo in
Your heart, each leaf was song.
Each wind upon tall grass found you
And took your joy along.

This is the path, and still I hear
Your happy laughter; this
Will always of this path be part
And dreams I would not miss.

A Farmer's Diary

Stocking Up.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THEY were finishing their chores as dusk. He drove the cows to the pasture, she closed the outside gate. A boy of four was tagging at her heels. It was so dark that we dimly saw the cattle move uncertainly about the field.

"You work late," said I.

"Well, yes, we do. We haven't had our supper yet. We always aim to get the chores done first. ...but drive in, won't you, and see our stock? We have an Ayrshire heifer..."

I drove in. The farmer brought a lantern to his wife, and we followed them into the barn. Outside, this building was old and drab. Within, it teemed with life and hope and promise for years to come.

A group of five fat lambs drew back into the corner of a stall, blinking. The shadows fell away before the feeble light, and showed us a mare with a half-grown colt on the straw beside her. In the next stall stood a yearling gray. "That's her colt last year," said the farmer, pointing. "We'll have a matched team in a year or two."

The woman led the way along a dim aisle beside the stalls, past horses munching fragrant hay, to a wide crevice-like shelf upon a beam. "Look here," she said, and held the light for us to see a mother cat and three day-old kittens. "I fed them yesterday with a medicine dropper," she remarked. "Today they seemed to have enough, without." I lifted one kitten and the old cat raised up and looked concerned.

Then we stopped at the Ayrshire heifer's stall. "She's only six months old," said the farmer's wife. "We bought a pure-bred Ayrshire bull calf a year ago. He's out there by the stack. Judy, here was only five days old when we got her, and the tiniest little calf you ever saw. Look at her now!"

The little red and white animal nuzzled at my hand. "She's very promising," said I.

"Everyone thinks so. We hope to raise a pure-bred Ayrshire herd. They're easy keepers, and give lots of high grade milk. We're both sold on them." Her face beamed and was animated.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—In a mood of sharp-eyed clairvoyancy, almost indeed as if he were some ghost reporter taking notes on future events, E. Phillips Oppenheim has written a novel whose action so closely parallels the recent European crisis that it leaves your heart ticking like a taxicab meter.

This is "The Spymaster," now being serialized by a great national weekly, and the parallel between fact and fiction is so striking, especially when you consider that it was written months ago, that I am obeying the impulse to outline it for you and let you see how solidly Oppenheim scored.

This is a story of counterespionage with the totalitarian states, Germany and Italy, on the brink of war with England. So eager are they to set the drums rolling that they can scarcely conceal their impatience, believing, as they do, that the empire is in no condition to wage a gruelling war.

Is not this the opinion expressed recently by many of Great Britain's highest executives?

In his recent and moving broadcast to the empire Prime Minister Chamberlain said: "I am myself a man of peace to the depths of my soul."

In Mr. Oppenheim's novel the prime minister declared: "You know I am a man of peace."

* * *

BEFORE the four powers met at Munich many rumors were abroad that Italy, at the zero hour, would jilt Hitler, leaving Germany like a forlorn bride at the altar, as she did in 1914.

The prime minister in "The Spymaster," in a conversation with a trusted advisor, says: "I do not think that these two nations were ever made to be allies. I don't think they would ever be able to fight a winning war against the empire. The people who as a nation are giving us the most trouble are disposed to follow the man they worship like a crazed mob, but then, after all, he has led them only to easy victories and all the time he dopes their vanity with fantastic and bombastic addresses. I don't even believe that the Italian people themselves want another war. The Germans do, of ccurse, and they will probably get it in time."

* * *

THE parallel becomes even more impressive when one remembers those urgent voices which said: sometime war will come, and since it seems to be inevitable, why not fight it now rather than give Germany additional time to gird and strengthen herself?

In the Oppenheim novel the representative of His Majesty's government observes: " . . . if these two troublesome countries really carry out what seems to be their present intention, I think it will be, in the end, a great blessing for us all . . . If Germany were to wait another 10 years I don't think that we could ever compete . . . If she starts this trouble now—well, in the long run, I should say that her present ruler is making as wicked a mistake as the Kaiser did in '14."

That's the set-up. That's what Mr. Oppenheim wrote nearly a year ago. How it will end I am unable to guess, as the story is current and I have followed it only up to the present installment. But so far it's a perfect parallel, and, if I may be permitted to express an opinion, it is also darned good reading.

Hints on Etiquette.

The woman who meets a male acquaintance in a restaurant does not permit him to pay for her meal unless he has especially invited her to join him.

One-Minute Test Answers.

1. Yes, the president has the power to veto an act declaring war. Congress also has power under the constitution to pass it over his veto.
2. To the right, or starboard.
3. Dante's "Inferno."

AFRAID TO MARRY + + +

CHAPTER 29.

ABBEY'S HANDS did not loosen their hold on Judy's arms. "Promise you'll not say one word about this to Phillippe. Promise! Promise, Judy?"

"Of course I won't!"

The voice said more: "Don't judge me by your code! What you do, whom you see, is not my affair!

Abbey sensed it, and became apologetic.

"I didn't mean that. Of course you won't talk. It's just that this wasn't important at all, and the count— Oh, you know the jealousy of foreign men!"

Her voice broke, much as a frightened, bewildered child's might have done. For the first time in the weeks she had been a member of the Boland household, Judy felt sorry for Abbey.

What was it Ronald had said? She had had no background of real values—

Judy spoke with a genuine rush of sympathetic understanding: "You needn't marry Count Phillippe, Abbey. No one will misunderstand if you've changed your mind. When love comes, don't be afraid. I was . . " She broke off.

The amazement on Abbey's face was genuine. She spoke slowly, not believing she had heard correctly if her tones were evidence.

"You mean you think I should not marry the count?"

"Not unless you love him, Abbey. Marriage needs so much—so much more than silver and gold."

Now Abbey's voice was faster and anger beat through its silken, light fabric.

"Whoever told you I didn't want to marry him? Where did you get such an idea?"

"I'm sorry. I was being sentimental, I guess." Better to get out of it as quickly as possible, Judy decided.

"You are entirely misinformed I'm marrying Phillippe. I want to marry him more than—than I ever wanted anything in my life!"

(Yes, Abbey, I know. You want to marry him because he has the crested key that will open closed doors, because you think life is a long, gay tour and he knows the routes as you go. Remember, Abbey, you can't leave your heart behind . . .)

* * *

Oh, it was ridiculous to muse in such a fashion Yet the terror in the purple eyes, for a moment, was so real that Judy could not be angry.

"No one in my life is important but Phillippe! Don't forget that, ever!"

Don't forget that ever! When al the time she was remembering that a warm-hearted young attorney, who had embroidered a few words with Valentine messages, was somehow interested in the heiress.

When the girls returned to the carnival, they discovered that another guest had come. In silver-edged green flounces, a mile of them, Mrs. Bedford was holding a miniature court. She had not drawn near the count, but across the room Judy saw the eyes of the two meet, laugh together, acknowledge the situation, and share an appreciation of life—its daring, its intrigue, its blonds and its mad quest for pleasure.

Marjorie saw that glance, too. It made her a little ill. She had felt that way ever since she had first greeted the representative of European royalty tonight. In two years Marjorie had learned much. She was able to analyze that month by the Adriatic sea very clearly. She had been in girls' schools in Switzerland, France, Italy and New York most of her life, before her mother left her at the Lido that magic month She did not believe in the reality of love because she had witnessed its disappointments so repeatedly.

Then along came the count.

He was not flesh of the flesh. He was a story book creature, a count with a castle and a silver sword on his ancestral hall, and a scarlet banner on the tower wall She had taken her dreams, woven a shining mantle of them, draped it on his shoulders, and somehow believed that when the summer ended the dream would fade away in the clouds without hurt. She had not analyzed the plan. She merely knew.

But she fell in love that month, and she thought the count did, too. Only one thing came true in the silly drama. He did go away. But first he told her he loved her . . .

Marjorie had had her debut in the autumn and she had grownup very quickly after that. Never again would a man's voice sweep her heart from its moorings. She was wondering tonight how this count could have done so She acutely disliked him. He wasn't the way she recalled him.

She felt contemptuous of both Mrs. Bedford and Abbey

Ronald was standing by Marjorie as the famous skater began another group of numbers. She smiled at him, whole-heartedly and radiantly, because he was real and clean and honest.

* * *

Abbey, who could be charming when she chose, was smiling, laughing, talking, now with one, person and now with another. She looked like a golden-haired princess, sweet and gracious, moving among her court. Marjorie, who knew nothing of the tyrannical grasping of the white jeweled hands, shook her head.

"She's too sweet for the count. Why doesn't somebody stop her?"

Ronald's heavy eyebrows were lifted in perplexity. "You doubt the royal manner, too?"

"Oh, he'll be all right. But a husband on your order could make a real person out of the girl."

To Judy, who came along at that moment hunting a place to sit and patch the flying figure that winged its way over the ice Marjorie repeated her words.

"I was telling Ronald he would make a much more suitable husband for Abbey than the count. Then the count could marry Mrs. Bedford and they would always understand each other perfectly."

"Do you believe there's a bond between the count and Mrs Bedford?" asked Ronald.

He asked it eagerly. Judy thought. So she wandered on to a place near the door and presently slipped away because she was not needed now She was nearly asleep when she heard the guests going home. So the evening had wound its streamlined, glittering way into the morning. The band had signed off, the revelry was done.

She slipped deeper into the warm blankets, smiling at the cool air that spattered an occasional snowflake on her tilted nose When you were very tired, very sleepy, nothing much mattered. Tomorrow, along about noon, she would face realty again, and wonder about Ronald and Abbey—Ronald and Abbey . . .

It was 12 when she wakened. There were no sounds of life in the great house. The snow had fallen steadily in the night. Now it had stopped She decided to take a walk. She found a thick sweater and heavy skirt, a rust tam and mittens to match. She was glad she had her heavy hiking shoes along.

* * *

There was no breakfast prepared in the dining room. The servants had expected no one to be up for another hour or two

Coralee called to her as she was slipping out the door

"Miss Rogers, I'll bring you some fruit juice and coffee and toast. Won't you sit down? I'm eating in the kitchen."

To have eaten in the kitchen was something which Abbey would have scorned But Judy had had more than one piece of bread and butter, richly spread with jam, in the kitchens of her father and mother's homes So she said:

"Oh, may I eat by the kitchen stove, too? I'm cold."

"Certainly, only — why, of course!"

The kitchen was a long, low room, shining with its copper and pewter pans and bowls and platters, scrubbed to the meticulous whiteness of a Dutch kitchen itself. At a long table, near the great fire, a man was sitting, his back to Judy. But she recognized him at once. Ronald was up early, too. And he was being equally democratic.

He grinned at her. "I feel at home. I always ate in the kitchen until I was 12—didn't know houses had more than one room."

She was finishing her toast when he asked: "What are you doing now?"

Dairy Convention Officials Appreciate With Check.

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— Officials of Cleveland's public hall were astounded when heads of four dairy conventions which met in it last week asked that their bill be increased by a $1,000.

Felix O'Neil, hall treasurer, had submitted a statement of $19,065.

We'll raise you $1,000," Robert Everett, vice-president of the Dairy Industries exhibition, told O'Neil. "We never have conducted a show in which our own personnel had so little to do and in which the service was so satisfactory."

The surprised hall officials accepted a check for $20,065.

FINISH TRAINING

Eight nurses who graduated from the Mansfield General hospital school of nursing in June have completed their three-year training course, hospital officials announced today.

Although members of the class received their diplomas in June, they were not presented with their nurse's pins until their three year course was completed this month.

Seven of the eight graduates are now members of the hospital staff and one plans to take post-graduate work. The eight will go to Columbus in December to take the state medical board examination for nurses.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

ASSOCIATION GIVES FIRST REVIEW, TEA

Mrs. W. E. Benninghoff, Cleveland, Appears Before 175 at Congregational Church Here Tuesday Afternoon.

THE first public social function to be sponsored by the Women's Association of the First Congregational church this year was the book review and tea given yesterday afternoon in the church auditorium. Mrs. W. E. Benninghoff, Cleveland, reviewed "The Importance of Living" by Lin Yutang. Miss Helen Hurst, president of the association, introduced the speaker.

In this book, the Chinese writer and student, principally points out the little things that make life more worth while. He lays emphasis on the futility of madly rushing from one thing to another and one place to another, urging a slower pace of living more relaxation, more leisure.

Contrasting the Chinese and the American people is the main way the writer gets his effect. He marvels at American efficiency, but derides the terrifying pace for living that we set. The quotable book is excellent reading not alone for its philosophy, but especially for the beauty and taste with which it is written.

Before presenting her review Mrs. Benninghoff announced the titles of several important books recently published or soon to appear on dealers' shelves. She mentioned "And Tell of Time" by Laura Crey, "My Son, My Son" by Howard Spring, "How to Get Things Done" by Seabury, "To the Market Place" by Fleming and "The Start of the Road" by Erskine.

For her next two reviews in this series of three Mrs. Benninghoff will review "My Son, My Son" on Nov. 22, and "Benjamin Franklin" by Carl VanDoren or Feb. 15. The reviews start at 2 p. m.

The ticket committee was headed by Mrs. Paul W. Williams, assisted by Mrs. R. G. Averill, Mrs. P. B. Dietrichson, Mrs. W. B. Osborn, Mrs. C. H. Bell, Mrs. H. B. Soulen, Mrs. Robert Black Mrs. Ernest Larson, Mrs. E. W. Dann, Mrs. Arthur Cline, Mrs. E. C. Flory, Mrs. T. J. Patton, Mrs. E. K. Troll, Mrs. David Feiser, Mrs. David Shelley, Mrs. F. R. Holibaugh, Mrs. Tom Ford, Mrs. Frank Hartman, Mrs. Paul Cropper, Mrs R. D. Lindsay, Mrs. John W. Graham, Miss Mary Proctor, Mrs. O. C. McCormick and Mrs. Fred Wolf.

Mrs. Black, Mrs. Averill, Miss Proctor, Mrs. H. B Sanford and Mrs. Osborn received the 175 guests attending the review.

Following the review tea was served in the church library The table was decorated with a large centerpiece of yellow and bronze button chrysanthemums, and Miss Hurst and Mrs. Fannie Carrier poured.

Mrs. Richard Fishback was in charge of the tea. Her committee included Mrs. Peter Young, Mrs Scott Coffin, Mrs. Charles Workman and Mrs. Eloise Buchan.

Make leftover rice into cakes, fry them in bacon fat and serve with maple syrup. They are delicious.

W. C. T. U. Chapter Has Regular Meet

Mrs. J. H. Sheriff, Penn avenue, entertained 25 members of the Frances Willard chapter of the W. C. T. U. yesterday at an all-day meeting and covered-dish dinner. Two comforts were knotted, and sewing was done. Rev. C. H. Sheriff was a guest.

During the business session Mrs. J. F. Cramer took charge, and Mrs. W. E. Shane presented the devotions. "Medical Temperance" was the title of the paper given by Mrs. F. O. Haldeman.

Convention reports were presented by Mrs. Mary Hulit, delegate, and Mrs. Kramer, guest. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Shane, Park avenue west road, Nov. 22.
